One Soldier Is Wounded in Fight in Which Mexicans Escape Between Two Fires

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 29.—Charles Boone, an American cattleman of El Paso, was taken from a Mexican Northwestern train at Guzman, Chihuahua, Mexico, and shot to death. Boone's partner, James Welch, witnessed the murder and arrived here with the story early today.

Welch stated that Colonel Hernandez, head of the Villa garrison at Guzman, had Boone executed by a firing squad without trial and presumed in retaliation for Carranza's recognition by the United States government.

Hernandez was said to have reached the train for other Americans, threatening to kill any more he found. Welch claimed to have escaped by hiding in the locomotive with the American engineers. They confirmed Welch's story.

New Company Attacked

BROWNVILLE, Texas, Oct. 29.—The Twenty-eighth infantry, ordered from Dallas to the Brownsville district last week, received its initiation into border warfare today when a small detachment was attacked twice by Mexicans between midnight and daylight. One American soldier was wounded but the Mexicans, although caught between two fires on the second attack, escaped without casualties.

Attacked Without Warning

The American detachment was stationed at the Capote ranch, three miles and a half north of Hidalgo. A band of about fifty Mexicans attacked without warning shortly after midnight. After twenty minutes of firing the Mexicans retreated across the Rio Grande. One American was wounded.

Signal rockets were sent up by the Americans when the attack began, and shortly after the Mexicans withdrew, Lieutenant Newman, with a troop of cavalry arrived from Hidalgo.

Two hours later the Mexicans again crossed the river and resumed the attack after which it was believed that very few of them succeeded in recrossing the river, as the cavalry scattered along the banks and maintained an almost impassable guard.

LIND LEAVES FOR TORREON TO SEE THE FIRST CHIEF

He Denies That Visit Is in Any Nature But That of a Friendly Call

BANDITS ATTACK INFANTRY

Steps Are Taken to Protect Americans with Carranza Promising His Co-operation

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 29.—Local telephone companies have received a report that General Carranza has been assassinated. The report has not been confirmed from any source.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Juan Namador, agent of the Mexican government here, in denying a San Antonio report that General Carranza had been imprisoned by Gen. Obregon, said he had received a telegram signed at Torreon last night by Carranza himself.

The Mexican embassy here discredited the San Antonio report of the assassination. It was said that a number of rumors of this sort had been started at that city by Villistas. Carranza was at Torreon, surrounded with his army.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 29.—John Lind, former personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico, left here today for Torreon to meet General Carranza. He was accompanied by several prominent constitutionalists and newspapermen.

Lind's trip to Mexico at this time has given rise to the rumor that the president may have selected him as minister to that country, but Lind stated today that his visit was merely to pay his personal respects to the first chief.

Will Protect Americans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Negotiations are under way to protect Americans at Douglas, Arizona, threatened by the impending battle between Villistas and Carranzistas at Agua Prieta. The state and war departments are endeavoring to induce both sides to move farther away from the American boundary.

Consul Garrothers was at Douglas with Villa and, if possible, induce him to avoid firing across the American border. Garrothers was assigned with Villa until Carranza's recognition and has great personal influence with him.

General Funston is endeavoring to secure consent to re-establish a neutral zone which will protect Douglas. Two regiments of American infantry and cavalry detachments to reinforce the Douglas garrison arrived there today.

Carranza Promises Co-operation

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 29.—Governor Ferguson today received telegrams from General Carranza and General Caballero, both dated at Torreon, assuring him that the Carranza government will co-operate with the Texas authorities in suppressing lawlessness on the border.

CONFERENCE VOID OF RESULTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—After a conference of more than three hours with the executive committee of the National Guards' association, at which no agreement was reached regarding co-ordination of the national guard and the proposed continental army, Secretary Garrison announced today that another conference would be held.

MAY SUE FOR CHILD'S CURS

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 29.—Mrs. Frederick Post today threatened to sue E. H. Braunig, baker in her neighborhood, for $250, because he cut off the pretty curls of her little four-year-old son, Freddie. Through warm summers and rigorous winters, the baker watched the little boy playing about with his resplendent curls, which worried the baker. So he did it.

ASSAULT CASE TRIED

Richard Bence, charged with assaulting James Hipshel, a fellow workman, was tried in county court this afternoon by a jury. Attorney J. E. Higbee is defending Bence, and Attorney F. E. Withrow is counsel for Hipshel.

Interest In Peace Aroused Anew Spain Instead of the United States Is Expected to Act as Mediator in War Briand Has Chance Avers Berger

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Whether it will be the United States or Spain—President Wilson or King Alfonso—that will mediate in Europe's war, was the absorbing question today in both official and diplomatic quarters as a result of renewed and intense interest here and in Europe's capitals of peace terms.

"The great war is now being fought in the capitals of Europe," one cabinet member in close touch with the situation said today. "The soldiers are not carrying on the battles. The struggle is being waged in Paris, London, Petrograd and Berlin. The political situations developing at these points look as if the big fight were about over."

Spain Favored
Many members of the diplomatic corps here believe Spain, rather than the United States, because of this country's disputes with both Germany and England, will be the active mediator of the war. Spain has not entered into commercial or other disputes. Unofficial information from Germany is also to the effect that the United States is not in the best position to be the chief peace factor.

American Ambassador Gerard's long conference with the kaiser is believed by many officials here to have launched the new discussion of peace in the foreign capitals. In the opinion of many officials collapse of the French cabinet and bickerings, not only between English officials, but between the allies generally portends peace.

That the attention of the world will soon be focussed on world politics rather than battle grounds is declared by many officials.

Von Buelow Makes Attempt?

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 29.—Announcing Prince von Buelow's arrival at Lucerne, the Tribune asserted today that the purpose of the German ex-chancellor's visit is to endeavor, in consultation with another diplomat, to find a definite formula for presentation by the pope to the allies with a view to ending the war. It was believed this was the basis of a rumor a few days ago that von Buelow was about to let President Wilson and the king of Spain know the terms on which Germany would make peace.

Briand Capable Says Socialist

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 29.—That Aristide Briand, former socialist and now premier in France, is big enough and strong enough to make an honorable peace with Germany and end a war in which France can gain nothing but still lose a world of men and treasure, was stated today by Victor L. Berger, former congressman and leader in the socialist party in an exclusive interview to the United Press on the effect which the appointment of a former socialist as premier of the French cabinet will have on the European war.

"The change in the French cabinet clearly signifies a further disintegration of the allies," continued Mr. Berger. "It is a mute protest of France against the continuation of a war in which France, while sacrificing most in men and money—is playing second fiddle to Great Britain and is pulling the chestnuts out of the fire for the British empire. The socialists of France are beginning to realize that."

Failure Acknowledged

"The reorganization of the French cabinet is an acknowledgement of the failure of the allies on the battlefield of European diplomacy. There can be no doubt that the resignation of Sir Edward Grey of England will follow the retirement of Delcasse and Viviani—and common sense and humanity will have a chance to assert themselves."

"Briand is considered a strong man. He was formerly inclined to be an extremist. In fact in France he represented what we call the I. W. W. in America. But he got over the folly of his youth years ago."

In expressing his hope that the new premier would end the war, Mr. Berger said:

"After all, France is not entitled to German Alsace and why should millions of Frenchmen die in order to protect the profits of the British manufacturers of Birmingham and to help the czar of Russia to extend his despotic rule further into Europe?"

AUTHORITIES FIND TWENTY-TWO DIED IN SCHOOL FIRE

Twenty-one Bodies Have Been Recovered While One Child Is Thought Buried

ORIGIN OF FIRE IS UNKNOWN

Belief Is It Started in a Closed Room in Basement; Local Authorities Blamed

PEABODY, Mass., Oct. 29.—Less than twenty-four hours after a score of children's bodies had been dragged from fire swept St. John's parochial school here, state authorities completed their investigation today, finding "no one criminally responsible."

This verdict was pronounced by Acting Chief George C. Neal of the state police. Neal said the fire probably started from matches in boys' coats hung in a closet under the stairway.

PEABODY, Mass., Oct. 29.—The dim light of a gloomy morgue today shone down upon a ghastly sight—the half burned, twisted corpses of nineteen little victims of yesterday's fire disaster at St. John's parochial school.

Bodies of two other children lay in St. Thomas' hospital, where they died from burns and the shock of the mad fight for safety in the smoke filled halls. The ashes of another little victim were believed to be mingled with debris inside the fire swept walls. Though firemen reported late yesterday that twenty-seven bodies had been found, a careful checking today put the death toll at twenty-two.

State investigators poked about the ruins today searching for the origin of the fire which is now believed to have started in a closet underneath the stairs leading from the basement to the first floor. They said they had no power to force the school authorities to build the fire escapes that might have saved the twenty-two victims. The local authorities, the state investigators said, were responsible for erection of fire escapes.

GORDER TELLS HIS OWN STORY

Man Escaped from West Salem Tells Story and Declares He Will Reside in Lansing in Future

"It is possible that Olaf Gorder has fully recovered his senses by this time," Dr. Adolph Gunderson told a TRIBUNE reporter today.

"While I cannot pass upon his present mental condition, not having seen Gorder since Dr. Evans and I found him insane in 1904, I have no disposition to question the verdict of the Iowa lunacy commission at Waukegan which has declared him sane."

"Gorder was a railroad man," said Dr. Gunderson, "and as I remember the case, his main difficulty was always wanting things to run on schedule time. He often thought he was back on his freight train, and that he would lose his job if the 'train' started or stopped off the 'schedule.'"

"The man was never violent," "Gorder," continued Dr. Gunderson, "was for a time confined at the St. Francis hospital. I was treating him, and once he locked himself in a room there and refused to let anyone in."

"This door is to be opened by me at 11:15 sharp," Gorder yelled through the keyhole to the physicians and hospital attendants who tried to persuade him to let them in.

"This train is going to start on schedule time today," he called, "or it won't be my fault. I've had enough of this being late business, and I'm going to stop it."

Threatened Murder

"Gorder has sullen moods and in these times is apt to be cranky and even ugly. On one occasion when I told him to stop chasing a steer with a hay fork he rushed at me with the fork."

Gorder Better Now

"For the past year, however, Gorder has been much better. I don't know what to say about Gorder. You never can tell. They go along all right for a time, and then something happens. You know Brabant. He was released from the asylum and a few weeks later killed his wife. I hope Gorder is sane, but I don't know."

Statement of O. Gullickson, superintendent of the West Salem asylum.

Declaring his sanity in an impassioned statement this morning, Olaf Gorder, recently escaped from the insane asylum at West Salem, now by verdict of an Iowa lunacy commission a free citizen of that state, said that he would remain in Lansing and secure employment there. Under no conditions, he says, will he return to Wisconsin.

Friends of Gorder today declare that his conduct continues to be that of a perfectly sane man, and that he is not shaken in their belief that Gorder was "railroaded" and that he was abused in the asylums of Wisconsin. At their expense Gorder is living in a Lansing hotel, awaiting work and other developments.

Gorder's Statement

Following is the statement which Gorder made for the TRIBUNE today:

"I was a railroad man until twelve years ago when I was operated upon at one of the hospitals at La Crosse for rupture, and after leaving the hospital I lived with my mother in La Crosse. When I was at my mother's house for Christmas dinner in 1914 I wished to leave the table to spit. My brother, Christian, being there also, ordered me to remain in."

THREE LOCAL MEN ARE CONVICTED IN "U" HAZING CASES

Sentenced to Two Weeks' Suspension From Classes, But Edict is Stayed

STAVRUM HURTING A SHOULDER

Out of Scrimmage Monday, But He Will Be In Shape For the Big Chicago Game

(By Irving M. Tuteur)

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—In a decision in the recent hazing cases handed down by the student court yesterday, Raymond Grams, Knut Houck and Frank Funke of La Crosse, together with forty-five other sophomores who pleaded guilty, are sentenced to a two-weeks' suspension from classes. The sentence, however, is stayed pending the good behavior of members of the class, and will not be put into effect unless there are further outbreaks between the two lower classes.

Fred Reimers of La Crosse, a junior, who was also arraigned before the court Monday evening for alleged participation in the ducking of freshmen, entered a plea of not guilty. With seven others, who also professed innocence, his case will be tried next Wednesday evening.

When the Varsity football team lined up against the Freshmen for practice at Camp Randall yesterday afternoon, "Eddie" Stavrum of La Crosse, left end on the regulars, was not in the line-up. Stavrum injured his shoulder in scrimmage Tuesday afternoon, and Coach Juneau thought it advisable to give him a rest. However, he again appeared on the field in a suit today, and will be in good shape for Saturday's critical game against the Maroons.

Interest here in the Chicago game is intense. Already 2,300 seats of the 2,700 sent to Madison by the Chicago officials have been sold, and by evening the entire block will be closed out, it is expected. Railroads have made preparations to carry 3,000 rooters to Chicago, the largest delegation ever to leave Madison for a football game.

Chicago Plays Score

While Wisconsin is conceded a much better chance for victory than the Maroons, the coaches here are not so confident. Wisconsin will have to play its best football at every stage in order to win. Using Chicago plays yesterday, the Freshmen scored two touchdowns on the Varsity. Every effort is now being made to improve the defensive strength of the Cardinal. Offensively the Varsity played true to form against the Freshmen yesterday, showing four touchdowns over on the yearlings.

Wisconsin will enter the game without the services of Kreuz, regular fullback, who has been laid up with a bad "charley horse." Galvin who played in his place in the Ohio State game, is also in poor shape and the coaches are puzzled just what to do. Riegger, who played at fullback for a time last season, Glaviers and Berg may be called on to fill the position before the whistle sounds the end of the game. All, however, are light, and it is questionable whether they could stand an hour of grueling such as the Maroon battle will demand.

Elected By Default

That "Eddie" Stavrum of La Crosse will be elected president of the Senior class at the university this fall by default is the impression which prevails on the campus today. Thus far Stavrum heads the only ticket that has entered the race. Nominations close Friday at 5 p. m. No talk of any opposition has been heard.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Gen. Joffre, French commander, was a visitor at the war office here today. He had a long conference with Lord Kitchener. Problems of the allies' joint campaign were understood to have been discussed. It was Joffre's first visit to England since the war began.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—Dr. Downey, chief statistician of the industrial commission and a national authority on liability insurance rates, applied to workmen's compensation, today resigned to accept the position of special deputy to the insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania.

Allies Expected to Offer Resistance in Bulgaria or Turkey and Leave Serbs to Fate

GERMANY SUPPLIES THE TURKS

It Is Thought the Ottoman Troops Will Receive Equipment Early Next Week

ALLIES TO STRIKE EASTWARD

Presumption Is They Will Try to Stop Advance of Central Powers Short of Constantinople

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Serbia seemed to be doomed today. The Austro-German-Bulgarian invasion progressed remorselessly. The allies were preparing a tremendous attempt to stop the Teutonic forces short of Constantinople, but indications were that the fighting would be in Bulgaria or Turkey.

This meant that the steam roller would pass completely over Serbia. One hundred and fifty thousand French and 13,000 British were at Salonika or north of there. A Russian landing on the Bulgarian Black sea coast was believed imminent. German military supplies for the Turks were reported already moving overland through northeastern Serbia into Bulgaria toward the nearest railroad connection with Constantinople. It was estimated these supplies would begin to reach the Ottoman troops early next week.

May Control Railroad

Prospects also were that the invaders would control the Belgrade-Constantinople railroad soon clear across Serbia. It was recognized that this meant a great speeding up of shipments to the Turks.

The necessity for the allies to strike eastward into Turkey and Bulgaria instead of northward to help the Serbs, was explained thus. It is estimated the Turks can put nearly 1,000,000 more men into the field if they can equip them. Equipped by the Germans they would surely attack the allies in the back, if the latter did not crush them first. It was too late today to think of getting between the Germans and the Turks and so preventing the sultan from getting the supplies; Germany had already opened her through route.

Serbs May Become Guerillas

The prediction was made that the Serbs would soon split their army into small bands and resort to guerrilla warfare, abandoning a front resistance.

Opposition Collapses, Says Berlin

BERLIN, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 29.—Serbia's opposition to German, Austrian and Bulgarian invasion was collapsing fast today. The Austro-German main drive through the Morava valley, said an official report, was advancing west of the Lapovo railroad station along the high road to Kragujevac.

Lapovo is a Belgrade-Constantinople railroad town on the west side of and near to the Morava. It is forty miles south of the Danube. Kragujevac is seventeen miles southwest of Lapovo and is a position of much strategic importance.

Russ Escape Submarines

PETROGRAD, Oct. 29.—German submarines attacked the Russian Black sea fleet while it was bombarding the Bulgarian port of Varna Wednesday, the admiralty announced today, but the czar's vessels were said to have escaped damage.

The bombardment lasted for hours, sea planes co-operating with the naval gunners by dropping bombs from the sky.

The Bulgarian harbor works, sheds and coast batteries were reported badly damaged, but it was denied that the town itself suffered.

The sea planes finally returned in safety to the ships. There were no Russian casualties.

heroes who would never return in the physical being to the arms of those awaiting them.

"You bet we will!" The general turned swiftly to his morning paper. The one swift glance at the large portrait of a stalwart young man in khaki disclosed the deep love of an Englishman for his only son.

A few minutes later he looked up with a smile. "The women are coming forward in this crisis with great spirit," he said. "Here is a young girl advertising for a position as chauffeur and gardener. Says she would like to take the place of a son who has gone to fight for his country." The general looked up wonderingly at his wife.

"That young lady would be a treasure. Is the salary too awful large?" Mrs. Malverly questioned hopefully.

"She asks no salary, bless her," replied the general. "She asks only housing and feeding."

"We will write today," Mrs. Malverly said promptly, her eyes shining. "I will be only too glad to give her our extra room. She and I can do most of the garden ourselves."

So it was that General Malverly and his wife became the possessor of a "motor maid," as Marian Wells chose to designate her calling.

"My brother has gone to the front," she told her employers while she, too, tried to hide the tragedy in her brave smile. "He is all the family I have. Life was intolerable without occupation."

She was a slim, pale girl, whose eyes shown with determination and hope. Otherwise Marian Wells had nothing to compel admiration. Her hands, too, were slim and white. The marvel was that they were so useful a pair of hands. She handled the garden tools no less skillfully than she managed the wheel of General Malverly's motor.

In fact, Marian immediately became a valued part of the household, and Mrs. Malverly wondered how she could ever again manage without her. The late flowers in the gardens began to grow trim and the brasses and enamel of the motor shone with a splendor that even the soldier laddie's vigorous rubbing had failed to bring forth.

Marian had been shown the portrait of Bobby Malverly, and, as all women did, she had freely expressed her admiration for the clean-cut, debonair private in the Irish guards.

"My brother, also, is in the Irish Guards," she said. "It would be strange if Dudley and your son should be fighting side by side."

There was no opportunity to write and ask, for it was not a day later that news reached the Malverly home from the front. The two men had fought side by side, or rather Bobby Malverly had fallen exhausted from wounds and it was Dudley Wells who had gone out under heavy fire to drag his comrade back to the trenches. Now both men were coming home wounded but cheerful.

"He saved my life for you who love me," Bobby had written to his parents, "and I am bringing him to you for some of that mothering that all men need in sickness or in health. He's only got a sister, and from his ravings I take it that she's the only angel living in this world of ours."

Marian laughed when this was read to her. There were tears running unrestrainedly down the cheeks of the two women and the general buried himself in the depths of the daily paper.

Soon every one in the Malverly house was dashing about preparing rooms and putting fresh flowers in vases.

Two heroes from the front were returning to be nursed, and there was no flower too wonderful and no touch too tender to gladden the hearts of those two sons of battle.

The general stood on the railway platform, blowing his nose vigorously and trying to look unaffected when two stalwart men in khaki and bandages were swept into the embrace of Marian and Mrs. Malverly. No one said anything for a long moment. The general laid the arm the Indian mutiny had left him across the shoulders of his son. Bobby looked up and smiled into his father's eyes over his mother's head. Then the general offered his hand to that other hero who was Marian's brother. After that they all burst into speech at once. The tension was over.

Marian, in her neat brown uniform, led the way and stepped into the driver's seat of the car. She smiled softly at her brother as his eyes opened wide. He had not known that Marian was helping her country after this fashion. She told him the story as they spun along.

"There are not many girls like you," was all Dudley said. And that, naturally, was the exact opinion Bobby Malverly held from the moment of his arrival home. General and Mrs. Malverly soon exchanged glances that suggested their having discussed a probability. Bobby had done with startling swiftness and energy that which from the first they had thought possible. He had fallen hopelessly in love with Marian as the "motor maid."

"I wonder whether I shall give the bride away or be best man," Dudley laughed one day while he was strolling with General and Mrs. Malverly about the fading gardens. Bobby and Marian had gone off together for a short spin through the twilight English lanes.

"You are to be my second son, Dudley," Mrs. Malverly smiled and laid her hand affectionately on his unbandaged arm.

"We have managed to pick up a rather jolly family," the old general chuckled happily.

Out in the motor car Bobby looked blissfully into the shining eyes of the girl whose slim fingers were guiding the car so firmly. His injured arm had slipped closely about her waist.

"We'll all be tremendously happy, my little 'motor maiden,'" he whispered, with his head against her shoulder.

And the car chugged contentedly on through the winding, fragrant lanes.

FREE SPEECH NOT DEAD IN ENGLAND

Agitator Calls Nation One of Tyrants in Defending the Policemen of London

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(By mail.)—The war hasn't killed free speech in England. When an Englishman wins a right, he holds it to it.

Here's a scene at Trafalgar Square last Sunday.

A large crowd gathered around Nelson monument; a tall man with an iron grey beard standing on the historic plinth; a banner either side of him; his strong voice fills the square.

You crowd up near him. One banner reads: "These policemen were fined for trying to start a policeman's union." Graves, McRea and Smith, it appears, were the names of the unfortunate coppers. Another banner says: "What about war bonuses for policemen and prison warders?"

The man was talking about oppressed policemen! Being an American and coming from a land of free and emancipated policemen, you laugh.

But this thousand persons listens intently to the woes of the "union of policemen and prison warders."

"They won't let us have a union," he shouts. "England is in the midst of a great war, with a country that is ruled by tyrants. But I want to tell you that there are no tyrants in the world meaner than the men who govern the police department."

He points a long arm down Whitehall—which is the Pennsylvania of London—as much as to say:

"Who will go down Whitehall with me and blow up police headquarters?"

On the same spot where he stands the suffrage riots were started; from this same place thousands of Englishmen, at different times in English history, have massed their way down "Government avenue" to the office of some unhappy erring official. As he talks now a score of policemen are standing by to see that no one interferes with his free speech.

He may curse the government all he pleases, even though the government is knee deep in war.

For an hour he talks about the woes of the unhappy policeman. Not a word does he say about enlistment, or England's need for men.

Then he rolls up his two banners, climbs down off the plinth and goes away.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Pinkie Bunny Kept His Master's Chair.

Pinkie Kicked the Camera Off the Chair.

"REMEMBER another story about Pinkie Bunny," said daddy when the children climbed in his lap.

"Once the little boy's parents took him up to Maine for a vacation. They lived at a beautiful hotel which was near the sea as well as pine woods, and they took Pinkie Bunny along with them in a big straw basket. He lived in the little boy's room, just as he did at home, and everybody in the hotel was very much interested in Pinkie. Now, one of the tricks the little boy taught him was to push anything out of his papa's chair. The little Pinkie would hop up in it and kick and push with his strong hind feet till the chair was empty. Then he would curl up in it till his master came home and took the chair."

"Can you train a bunny to do tricks, just like a dog?" asked Jack, who wanted a dog.

"Not always. But Pinkie Bunny was very intelligent, and he had had lots of care spent on his education," said daddy.

"At the hotel there was a very queer old man who spent all his time taking pictures of bugs and beetles and flies. He had a beautiful camera and a strange little tin box that he used to take into the woods with him every day. Everybody at the hotel used to wonder what he did with so many bugs, but he talked very little and just went on snapping mosquitoes and dragon flies.

"Now, Pinkie's master liked to sit in a big wicker chair at one end of the long hotel veranda, and one day when Pinkie and the little boy came back from a sea bath Bunny found the queer old man's camera sitting in his master's chair. Soon as the little boy went in to luncheon Pinkie jumped up in the chair and scratched and kicked till the old man's camera tumbled off on the floor and broke."

"Was the old man cross at Pinkie?" asked Jack.

"So cross that he left the hotel on the next train," said daddy. "But everybody liked Pinkie so much better than they did the old man, and enjoyed seeing him bathe in the sea every day, that Pinkie was allowed to live at the hotel all summer and came back to town with a beautiful new fur coat for winter."

"Will you buy us a bunny, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"I'd rather have a dog," cried Jack.

"We'll have both on our farm," said daddy.

MOTOR MAID MARION

BY HOPE AINSLEE

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The morning was fresh and fragrant with the odor of ripening fruit. General Malverly sighed as he realized that he could no longer take his daily drive through glorious country roads. His only son had joined the army and gone to the front, and without Bobby to drive the car to the station and return home with it the general found his motor useless. He wished he had been able to run the car himself. The Indian mutiny of long ago had robbed him of his right arm.

"I'm sorry I am such a silly bunch of nerves," his wife said, reading the longing in her husband's eyes; "otherwise I could have learned to drive. I will gladly discharge Diana."

The general laughed softly and patted her affectionately. "You would work your hands off for your husband and son if we'd let you, but I think I can get along without my drive to and from the station more easily than you can dispense with our excellent cook."

"We will be glad when our brave soldier laddie returns, won't we dear?" she said, smiling bravely and trying to hide the tragic fear in her eyes lest her laddie be among those

WE ARE RATHER PROUD OF THIS

In a letter describing what Kenosha has done to make that city a healthful, wholesome place of residence, Dr. W. A. Evans, next to Dr. Wiley the most widely known health expert in America, writes to the Chicago Tribune:

The people (of Kenosha).....studied what Dr. Furstenberg had done at La Crosse and they decided to get a genuine health department.

Again the prophet is not without honor.

PEACEFUL VALLEY

To the gospel of "preparedness" no more interesting answer has come to our notice than that made in an illustration offered by Mr. Moncena Dunn at a recent meeting of the Open Forum.

Picture a high plateau, within it a lake, on one side of it three valleys separated by mountain ranges, forming its watershed; on the opposite side another valley, draining only its own sides and receiving no waters from the plateau.

The land in the three valleys of the watershed is rich, but a portion of it is not productive because of overflow by the waters discharged by the plateau.

The people of one of the three valleys built a dam upon the plateau, shutting off that portion of the waters not required for agricultural purposes. This forced more water into the adjacent valleys, and the people of these valleys, too, built dams. Those in the first valley then increased the height of their dam, and the other valleys retaliated with still higher dams. The competition increased until the piled-high waters swept the dams away and devastated the three valleys.

Then the engineers who had built the dams, looking for more work, crossed the plateau to the valley on the other side. It was peaceful and prosperous; it had just enough water for its needs. It had not suffered by the disaster beyond the plateau. But the engineers said that the dams in the three valleys on the plateau's watershed might force flood water back upon the prosperous valley, and they urged its people to build a great dam on the plateau.

Of course there had been little danger when the three dams existed in defiance of a natural watershed; there was no immediate danger whatever now that the three dams were swept away.

Shall we of the peaceful and prosperous valley build the dam on the remote hazard that the people of the other three valleys may again build dams, even greater ones, to menace their own very existence?

FRANKLY DISHONEST

It is true that Levi was one of the most conspicuous members of the La Follette administration until, with other reformers in the attorney general's office, he was caught riding on a pass.—Leader.
Riding on a pass? Dreadful, dreadful! Truly the world is growing better. Time was when ordained clergymen—yes, by George! and even newspapermen—committed this atrocity of riding on a pass. How strange and awful it all seems now as we think of it.

Nowadays, such is the march of ethical progress and high moral purpose, nobody rides on a pass. In fact, the railroads won't come across with one. Nothing you can say will melt them. We have tried it ourselves and know.—The Sentinel.

In its inferences regarding Judge Bancroft's pass the Sentinel is as honest as it was when, it admits, it tried to secure a pass that it could not have secured without violation of law.

Riding on a pass before that was prohibited by statute was not wrong, provided the pass was honestly secured, for a proper and moral consideration. Frankness did not impel the Sentinel to admit that "Levi" rode on a pass after law made such conduct an offense against the state.

As to the Sentinel's admission that it has failed in an effort to get from the railroads passes which the law forbids, the editorial statement which we quote is the only editorial we have ever seen in the Sentinel calculated to create the impression that the request for passes had been refused.

MR. ROONEY PULLED THIS ONE

With due respect to Billy Hurtgen and Fritz Wenzel, we revert to the original notion that wit and the blackthorn share Celtic nativity.

And it's all owing to Henry Rooney.

Recently it was recounted that the Rooney family was gladdened by the arrival of a boy. He was No. 4, and there wasn't a single sister. Pursuant to its custom upon such occasions, the Elks lodge, of which Mr. Rooney is a member, sent a beautiful bouquet of American Beauty roses. Acknowledging the gift, Mr. Rooney concluded:

"... however, it would have been more appropriate had you sent sunflowers."

ONE WAY OF LOOKING AT IT

From Madison emanates the story that Governor Philipp's failure to appoint a tax commissioner to succeed Tom Adams is based upon considerations of economy. The tax commissioner and the governor draw approximately equal salaries, and it is said that by delaying the appointment of a commissioner the governor feels that he is saving the state his own salary.

It may be suggested that a more direct way to attain this worthy end would be for the governor to appoint a tax commissioner and hand in his own resignation, and there are those who would add that the sum total of public service would not suffer by the latter method.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

When the sunlight dies in the western skies,
And the stars come out to play
With the moon, who tries to put out
their eyes,
As the sun who rules the day—

Then the Sandman comes to his little chums,
And he calls to Jack and Sue—
"If you hold my thumbs till the black cat hums,
We will play the whole night through!"

"Now the word is 'mums,' so do not be grums,
Nor forget what you must do—
If you will hold my thumbs till the black cat hums,
We will play the whole night through!"

"I have candied plums, and big sugar crumbs
That are green and white and blue—
So forget your sums, and hold fast my thumbs,
And we'll play the whole night through."

"In the black cat's zoo, where the kangaroo
And the bears play peek-a-boo;
Rest your 'craniums' till the black cat hums,
And we'll play the whole night through."

"While my fairy drums beat their loud tumtums,
And the song birds bill and coo!
There will be no gums, but we'll all be chums,
And be chums the whole night through."

Then little boy blue and his sister, too,
Run away without "good-bys,"
To that land so true where the whole night through
They can play with their 'allies."

Till the moonlight dies in the eastern skies,
And the stars refuse to play
With the sun who flies to put out
their eyes
In the light of another day.
—Paul Wiley Weer, in Indianapolis Star.

In the good old days gone by where a gardener was kept it used to be the custom to keep a cask of lemonade from which the outdoor servants could help themselves. The gardener was noticed to go very frequently to the cask, and his mistress took occasion to speak to him on the subject.

"John," she said, "I think you get thirsty very often."
"No, mum, I don't," replied John.
"Well, John, I see you very frequently at the lemonade barrel."
"Yes, mum, that's what keeps me from gettin' thirsty."

The captain had not been long married when he was ordered into camp. To be sure, the camp was in plain sight of the captain's residence, but then it was still a separation, and to lighten this terrible condition it was arranged that the bereaved husband and wife should signal to each other often with their handkerchiefs. It was on the second day that the young wife was seated on the porch reading. "Tell me,

WOMEN SUFFERERS NEED SWAMP-ROOT.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness and may be despondent and irritable.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, restores health to the kidneys and is just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a fifty-cent or one dollar bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the La Crosse Daily Tribune.

IN STERLING LIVES A GIRL

Who Suffered As Many Girls Do—Tells How She Found Relief.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Mrs. JOHN TETREAU, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LAVISA MYRES, Box 74, Massena, N. Y.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

Girls who are troubled with painful irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Jane," said she, "is the captain still signaling?" "Yes, ma'am," answered the maid. "Then keep waving your handkerchief. I want to finish this novel." At the same time, in camp, an officer from an adjoining company stepped up to the captain. "I say, old fellow," he asked, "why do you keep that man out there all day waving a handkerchief?" "Oh, it's merely a bit of signal code practice for him."

Among the Japanese, economy is held to be a high virtue. Two old misers were one day discussing ways and means of saving.

"I manage to make a fan last about twenty years," said one, "and this is my system: I don't wastefully open the whole fan and wave it carelessly. I open only one section at a time. That is good for about a year. Then I open the next, and so on until the fan is eventually used up."

"Twenty years for a good fan?" exclaimed the other. "What sinful extravagance! In my family we use a fan for two or three generations, and this is how we do it: We open the whole fan, but we don't wear it out by waving it. Oh, no! We hold it still, like this, under our nose, and wave our face!"—Everybody's Magazine.

There is a young author in Baltimore who is determined to achieve fame in the writing line if it takes his whole life. Accordingly, he is even willing to defray the cost of putting on the market the numerous novels he writes from year to year.

On the occasion of his last visit to his publisher, however, he was somewhat vexed, a rather unusual thing with him. "Why," asked he, "do you charge me more this time than before?"

"Well," said the publisher, with the utmost frankness, "the compositions were constantly falling asleep over your last novel."

Mrs. Newma—"Oh! I wish you could see Mrs. Winkler's baby. It's perfectly lovely! Such a delicate, sweet little creature as it is! It's a perfect little cherub, with the loveliest eyes, the sweetest little mouth, the cunningest little nose and eyes of heavenly blue. It looks as if it has just dropped from heaven and every tiny feature had been fashioned by the angels."

Mr. Newma—"Is it as nice as our baby?"

Mrs. Newma—"Mercy! No, not half."

KAZAN

By James Oliver Curwood

Author of The Danger Trail, The Honor of The Big Snows, Philip Steele, Etc.

Copyright 1914, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

The next day he had what the forest people call "porcupine mumps." His face was swollen until Gray Wolf would have laughed if she had been human, and not blind. His chops bulged like cushions. His eyes were mere slits. When he went out into the day he blinked, for he could see scarcely better than his sightless mate. But the pain was mostly gone. The night that followed he began to think of hunting, and the next morning before it was yet dawn he brought a rabbit into their den. A few hours later he would have brought a spruce partridge to Gray Wolf, but just as he was about to spring upon his feathered prey the soft chatter of a porcupine a few yards away brought him to a sudden stop. Few things could make Kazan drop his tail. But that inane and incoherent prattle of the little spiked beast sent him off at double-quick with his tail between his legs. As man abhors and evades the creeping serpent, so Kazan would hereafter evade this little creature of the forests that never in animal history has been known to lose its good-humor or pick a quarrel.

Two weeks of lengthening days, of increasing warmth, of sunshine and hunting, followed Kazan's adventure with the porcupine. The last of the snow went rapidly. Out of the earth began to spring tips of green. The lakneesh vine glistened redder each day, the poplar buds began to split, and in the sunniest spots between the rocks of the ridges the little white snow-flowers began to give a final proof that spring had come. For the first of those two weeks Gray Wolf hunted frequently with Kazan. They did not go far. The swamp was alive with small game and each day or night they killed fresh meat. After the first week Gray Wolf hunted less. Then came the soft and balmy night, glorious in the radiance of a full spring moon when she refused to leave the windfall. Kazan did not urge her. Instinct made him understand, and he did not go far from the windfall that night in his hunt. When he returned he brought a rabbit.

Came then the night when from the darkest corner of the windfall Gray Wolf warned him back with a low snarl. He stood in the opening, a rabbit between his jaws. He took no offense at the snarl, but stood for a moment, gazing into the gloom where Gray Wolf had hidden herself. Then he dropped the rabbit and lay down squarely in the opening. After a little he rose restlessly and went outside. But he did not leave the windfall. It was day when he returned. He sniffed, as he had sniffed once before a long time ago, between the boulders at the top of the Sun Rock. That which was in the air was no longer a mystery to him. He came nearer and Gray Wolf did not snarl. She whined cooingly as he touched her. Then his muzzle found something else. It was soft and warm and made a queer little sniffing sound. There was a responsive whine in his throat, and in the darkness came the quick soft caress of Gray Wolf's tongue. Kazan returned to the sunshine and stretched himself out before the door of the windfall. His jaws dropped open, for he was filled with a strange contentment.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Education of Ba-ree.

Robbed once of the joys of parenthood by the murder on the Sun Rock, both Gray Wolf and Kazan were different from what they would have been had the big gray lynx not come into their lives at that time. As if it were but yesterday they remembered the moonlit night when the lynx brought blindness to Gray Wolf and destroyed her young, and when Kazan had avenged himself and his mate in his terrible fight to the death with their enemy. And now, with that soft little handful of life snuggling close up against her, Gray Wolf saw through her blind eyes the tragic picture of that night more vividly than ever and she quivered at every sound, ready to leap in the face of an unseen foe, to rend all flesh that was not the flesh of Kazan. And ceaselessly, the slightest sound bringing him to his feet, Kazan watched and guarded. He mistrusted the moving shadows. The snapping of a twig drew back his upper lip. His fangs gleamed menacingly when the soft air brought a strange scent. In him, too, the memory of the Sun Rock, the death of their first young and the blinding of Gray Wolf, had given birth to a new instinct. Not for an instant was he off his guard. As surely as one expects the sun to rise so did he expect that sooner or later their deadly enemy would creep on them from out of the forest. In another hour such as this the lynx had brought death. The lynx had brought blindness. And so day and night he waited and watched for the lynx to come again. And woe unto any other creature of flesh and blood that dared approach the windfall in these first days of Gray Wolf's motherhood!

But peace had spread its wings of sunshine and plenty over the swamp. There were no intruders, unless the noisy whistling-jacks, the big-eyed moose-birds, the chattering bush sparrows, and the wood-mice and ermine could be called such. After the first day or two Kazan went more frequently into the windfall, and though more than once he nosed searchingly about Gray Wolf he could find only the one little pup. A little farther west the Dog-Ribs would have called the pup Ba-ree for two reasons—because he had no brothers or sisters, and also because he was a mixture of dog and wolf. He was a sleek and lively little fellow from the beginning, for there was no dilution of mother strength and attention. He developed with the true swiftness of the wolf-whelp, and not with the slowness of the dog-pup.

TREASURES GUARDED FROM ZEPPELINS

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) LONDON, Oct. 6.—(By mail.)—Elaborate precautions against damage by Zeppelins to priceless treasures in the British museum have been taken.

The Elgin room, containing the great Elgin marbles, is closed to the public and the pedimental sculptures of the Parthenon have been removed to a strong room, specially constructed in the basement. The Parthenon frieze, affixed to the walls, has been elaborately protected with sandbags.

The noted Portland vase, the Rosetta stone and many other relics which cannot be replaced, now repose in safety in the vaults of the great building.

The great lights that once shone brightly in the interior and exterior of the museum have been dimmed to a point where the building more properly resembles a gigantic tomb.

A Louisville attorney and a railroad man who has his "stopover" here went to a theater the other night. The railroad man saw a flashily dressed, red-faced, sporty-looking individual sitting in one of the boxes.

"Who is that tough person sitting in the box?" the railroad man asked pleasantly. "He looks like a drunken burglar."

"That," said the attorney, "is my cousin."

The railroad man gasped a couple of times before he could get a grip on himself. Then a smile spread over his face as he remarked:

"Well, I went straight to headquarters for information, didn't I?"

Men do a whole lot of protesting against picnics but they keep on attending them just the same.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Editor La Crosse Tribune:

Dear Sir—I use this opportunity to state what I think was an unfair disposal of the north side high school.

Any fair minded citizen after hearing the discussion for and against the north high school would not but have given a unanimous decision in favor of the school. The principal of the high school said he thought he could accommodate 1,000 to 1,100 pupils. Superintendent Benezet and the president of the board said he could not. Even if he can take care of them at the present how about the future? If the number keeps increasing as in the past it will soon be over 1,100 and no place to accommodate them, and nothing started.

To onlookers it looked like a cut and dried affair. It seems to me that the word of the president of the board and superintendent of schools who know the conditions in the entire city should be taken before that of the principal of schools who thinks he knows the condition in the high school only.

This question is one of whether or no the high school is a necessity. It was agreed that it was but we could get along without it. We can get along without any schools at all, but nevertheless it is a necessity.

One of the aldermen of the south side made the statement that if a vote was taken on the north side for a high school it would be turned down. I am surprised that this alderman is so familiar with conditions up here and that he was foolish enough to make that statement before the delegation from the north side present. I am positive that should there be a vote taken it would carry by over 90 per cent. And am convinced after talking with many south sides that it would carry on the south side.

The north side has been defeated, but the fight has but begun, and will continue until successful. North La Crosse was promised a north high school when the south high school was built. For the present the fare was to be given the child when the bridge vote was taken. We were virtually promised the school and all those promises are broken. Do you wonder the north side think they are being imposed on?

Yours for fair play,
JOHN G. DUBRAKS.

TOMMIES GIVEN SNAPSHOTS OF FOLKS AT HOME

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(By mail.)—Snapshots for the men in the trenches is the purpose of a new organization—The Home League—now operating in England.

Thousands of amateur photographers go daily with their kodaks and cameras to the homes of the "Tommies" to snap the home folks. The pictures are turned over to the Y. M. C. A., where already 15,000 soldiers have written to ask for a "snap" of kiddies, mother or wife.

Sometimes in the smaller cities and villages these amateurs set up free "galleries" in their various gardens and tell the relatives of soldiers to come and be snapped. Within ten days the "snap" is in the trenches.

The league, according to advices, will soon extend its activities to Canada, Australia and New Zealand, where pictures of the colonial "Tommies" may be taken and sent to the various fronts.

It's hard to convince doctors and druggists that health is wealth.

GREAT BRITAIN AWAKES TO NEED OF AIR PROTECTION

Project to Launch Fifty Aircraft Within Next Two Years Is Under Way

BY WILBUR S. FORREST (United Press Staff Correspondent.) LONDON, Sept. 24.—(By mail.)—England has at least weakened, if not to the danger at least to the nuisance of the Zeppelin menace.

Candid admission having been made in London papers that the raids are "becoming somewhat continuous and irritating," England has set herself to meet them. Having thus scratched the surface of British self-complacency, Germany may soon find herself facing a rival aerial program as stupendous and as difficult to meet as the naval construction program of the British admiralty.

A project for the launching of fifty aircraft within the next two years and the laying down of sufficient amount each year thereafter to insure complete mastery of the air is England's plan.

The British fleet of dirigibles would be purely a "home defense" fleet. Should it later become an offensive weapon its sponsors declare that would be logical.

France appears successfully to have solved the Zeppelin menace with her aeroplane service, England has not. This does not mean that England is deficient in that service, for she has developed an extensive and effective fleet.

Either it means that aerial defense has not been given much consideration or that the great bulk of the English aerial corps is in Flanders or at the Dardanelles.

The project for a fleet of dirigibles is based on the fact that the dirigible is the worst enemy of the Zeppelin. Lighter than air, the Zeppelin can ascend rapidly, while the aeroplanes chasing them climb slowly.

The English aerial fleet program provides for the immediate construction of thirty sheds about 800 by 200 feet. These would be larger than the Zeppelin shed used by Germany and would admit the simultaneous construction of two aircraft in each.

The steel frames for these would come from the United States. Brick and cement are available in England. The cost of each shed including the gas plant, would be about $250,000.

It is estimated that six months would be required for building the sheds. Two aircraft would at once be laid down in each, the designs being completed during the six months of building.

Delivery of the craft could begin within a year. By the end of the second year, it is estimated, a fleet of fifty craft would be complete. After that a steady program of laying down a certain number each year would be enforced.

The type of dirigible suggested as being most effective for home defense would be able to rise 8,000 feet, would have a speed of fifty-five miles an hour and a lifting capacity of ten tons each. The cost would be about $50,000 per craft, bringing the initial cost of the aerial fleet of fifty vessels together, with the thirty sheds, up to about $32,500,000.

Additional defense could also be secured, it has been suggested by requiring each ship-building concern to erect a shed and maintain a dirigible.

JAP TRIO LEADS VAUDEVILLE BILL

Magicians from Cherry Isle Feature Classy Bill at the La Crosse Theater

With five widely different acts, each practically new in its line here, and each number on the bill just a little bit ahead of the other, the La Crosse theater scales the heights of good vaudeville with its bill for the balance of the week. An audience yesterday afternoon filling the theater's lower floor, did not fail to applaud each act.

The bill's zenith comes with the performance of magic by The Aki Trio of Japanese. The Cherry Isle dwellers have gorgeous costumes of their native land and their stage setting and scenery is startling. A group of cabinet tricks is entertaining, and the leader of the company makes an audience pant for breath when he extracts several gallons of water from what appears to be empty space. One of the company, a small Japanese girl, sings delightfully in English.

"The Mysterious Masquerader," a contortion act woven into a playlet extraordinary, offers that always-to-be-attained novelty in vaudeville. George Herman does the "heavy work" and twists his body into a thousand shapes while Marion Shirley gets by with clever comedy. The act holds a surprise which it would be unfair to a vaudeville fan to give away beforehand.

A majority of the humor of the week's bill is left to Warton and Brandt, who can sing well, and who pull comedy via the conversation route.

Frank Terry is directly from the Hippodrome at Chicago with a character sketch, "Mr. Knocker and Mr. Boozie." His part of the program teems with oldtime vaudeville style and is solid entertainment. Terry knows how to make an audience laugh, but he can make it think seriously, too.

Victorine and Zolar start the bill off with something new in the dancing line. They carry a handsome velvet curtain in front of which they close their act with a whirl. They feature a dance they call "La-Dans-Duello."

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

QUEEN MOTHER IS AN ATTENDANT AT MEMORIAL SERVICE

Service for Miss Cavell Brings One of Greatest Crowds in History to St. Paul's

BY W. S. FORREST (United Press Staff Correspondent.) LONDON, Oct. 29.—The memorial service for Miss Edith Cavell brought to St. Paul's today one of the greatest crowds in the cathedral's history. Immense numbers had to be turned away. All streets in the vicinity were filled with mourners. Queen Mother Alexandra was present in person. King George and Queen Mary sent representatives. The cabinet members, most of the members of the diplomatic corps and numerous other notables were in the audience. Six hundred London nurses occupied front seats. American Ambassador Page was unable to attend.

Dean Inge of St. Paul's presided at the service, assisted by the chapter of canons. Accompanying the choir was the full Life Guards band. Music included the hymns "Abide With Me" and "The Lord is My Shepherd," and Somerville's "Funeral March for Those Killed in Action."

Miss Cavell's mother and other members of the family had conspicuous places in the cathedral.

FIVE MILLION DOLLAR FIRM WILL PRESENT "TRIANGLE" PROGRAM OF FILMS IN CITY

A five million dollar corporation is the latest of the gigantic combinations which are rapidly placing the motion picture business upon the most substantial plane of any amusement enterprise in the United States. This latest aggregation, the largest in the history of the films, is known as the Triangle Film Corporation, and takes its name from the circumstance that it has been formed by three of the greatest producers in the world.

David Wark Griffith, whose name is a household word because he produced "The Birth of a Nation," unanimously conceded to be the masterpiece of the movies, is the chief "corner" of the triangle. With Griffith are Thomas H. Ince, who evolved the mighty spectacle, "The Battle of Gettysburg," and Mack Sennett, producer of the Keystone comedies which are among the staples of the movie-fan's diet.

The Majestic theater, in LaCrosse, has secured the franchise for the production of these pictures. The Triangle Film Corporation, while it leases its own houses in the larger cities, in the smaller communities places its service in first-class houses. In New York and Chicago the Triangle programs are shown for prices as high as $2 a seat, but in La Crosse ten cents will be the uniform price asked by Mr. Koppelberger to introduce the service.

In the Majestic two changes a week will be made by the Triangle service. Their weekly offering is a Griffith drama, and Ince drama, and two Sennett-Keystone comedies. Thus each half-week at the Majestic will see a drama of the highest caliber and a story in lighter vein. Not less than seven reels will be shown at each performance, and special thematic music, prepared by William Furst, will accompany each picture.

The first bill of the Triangle program is earnest of what will be offered. In the opening week the new combination presents Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain," an Alaskan romance; Lively Douglas Fairbanks in the title role of "The Lamb," a Mexican adventure story; and Raymond Hitchcock, Mack Sennett, Mabel Normand and Fred Mace in an uproarious farce, "My Valet."

Although that array of talent would bankrupt any "legit" manager, it doesn't feaze the movie men, who produce for a thousand theaters simultaneously. As a matter of fact, the stars mentioned are only few of the 120 who have been cornered for the exclusive service of the Triangle program. Among the others are Billie Burke, DeWolf Hopper, Willie Collier, Julia Dean, Besie Barriscale, Mary Boland, Frank Keenan, Orrin Johnson, Bruce McKee, Willard Mack, Mae Marsh, Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Tully Marshall, Thomas Jefferson, Hale Hamblin, Ford Sterling, Roscoe Arbuckle, W. S. Hart, Helen Ware, Katharine Kaelred, Frank Mills, Frank Campanau, Eddie Foy, Joe Jackson, Bert Clark, Sam Bernard and Weber and Fields.

DEFENSE ISSUE IN NEXT CAMPAIGN IS BENTLEY'S BELIEF

Mayor Discusses National Politics at Opening of
New Yeomen Hall
Last Night

National preparedness will be the issue in the next national election, and party lines will be relegated to a secondary importance to the voter. Mayor A. A. Bentley made this prediction in an address of welcome at the dedicatory exercises held by Brotherhood of American Yeomen in their new hall in the old Y. M. C. A. last night. The mayor deplored the lack of fraternalism in the world and pointed out to the members of the Yeomen that the greatest problem before the nation today was the solution of the question of keeping out of the war in Europe. Fraternal organizations are in a position to play an important part in preserving our neutrality, he said.

Between fifty and sixty applicants were initiated into the order last night, under the supervision of William Koch, of Des Moines, grand foreman of the Yeomen. The initiation followed a business meeting.

Dr. E. E. Burritt, honorable foreman, spoke briefly on the subject, "For the Good of the Order," and urged each member to bring in a new member. The membership aim was placed at 3,000, he said, almost double the record to date.

Charles Dittman, secretary of the Eagles, and one of the class initiated last night, gave the members of the order his first impression of the Yeomen, and touched on fraternalism's service to humanity.

Frank Winter, the first foreman of the local home of Yeomen, reviewed the growth of the home since its organization fourteen years ago, with but a handful of members to the present thriving camp of more than 1,500 members. In a reference to the remarks of Mayor Bentley, Mr. Winter declared that this country would have to be in a state of preparedness so long as we cling to the decree that no European country shall acquire additional territory in America.

The Hon. William Koch, of Des Moines, grand foreman of the Yeomen, delivered the dedicatory address of the evening. He complimented the local home on their beautiful new home. Mr. Koch confined his remarks to a few concise statements concerning the purpose of the brotherhood and the opportunity of the Yeomen to do other similar orders of the country to demonstrate the advantages and power of fraternalism.

Dorothy Luth and Villa Jury rendered vocal solos, while Mrs. H. A. Lee gave an original poetic toast to "Our Husbands." The juvenile drill team gave a neatly executed fancy drill following the address of the mayor. Nine rahs for "hizzoner" closed their drill.

BIG SUIT STARTED AGAINST SCHWAB

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—A $3,000,000 suit was brought against the Bethlehem Steel company today by the Churchward International Steel company of Wilmington, Del. The Wilmington concern alleges infringement of three of its patents for producing and hardening of alloyed steel and iron in turning out war munitions for the allies.

CHARGES OF THE STATE

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—The Wisconsin Sterilization law, passed by the legislature of 1913, will be put into actual operation by the state board of control some time in November when twenty-four inmates of the Home for Feeble Minded at Chippewa Falls will be submitted to surgical treatment for this purpose. This information was given out by President James O. Davidson of the board of control today and is the result of two years of investigation by the board. The patients have been examined, relatives conferred with, according to the law, and the doctors to take charge of the work selected. This work will be continued as fast as circumstances will permit in an effort to cope with the problem of stopping the propagation of incompetent children by feeble minded and degenerate parents.

my chair. As I did not like his tone of ordering me around, I in a quiet manner left the house, saying very few words.

"On Dec. 31 I was surprised when Deputy Sheriff Henry Luth and another party, I think one of the jail attendants, served papers on me. I was taken to jail and there Doctors Evans and Gunderson came and examined me and committed me to the asylum at Mendota.

"I was not insane as they pronounced me and never have been at all. I was kept at Mendota one year and twenty days and at the end of that time, without my consent, they transferred me to West Salem where I was kept virtually a prisoner up to Oct. 24, 1915. I don't know just why I was sent to these places but I never was insane and I think it was in regard to some money matters. I don't care about that. It is the thought of being unjustly imprisoned for eleven years of my life.

Will Live in Lansing
"Now that I am free I will remain in Lansing if I can get work. "I was treated shamefully at West Salem. The food given me was not fit to eat and when I worked occasionally at some farm near the asylum I never received any pay. I think some one else collected it for me, but I never saw it. I was born and raised here in Lansing and I have a number of friends here who will see me through until I get work. I was examined by Dr. Crawford, the insane commissioner at Waukon and pronounced 'perfectly sane.'"

Tells Family History
According to Gorder, he was born in Lansing. Ole K. Gorder, his father, was born in Norway and came to America in 1847. He was married three times. His third wife was Agnetta Nelson, a sister of N. A. Nelson, of Lansing. To them three boys were born, Olaf, Charles A. Gorder of Waukesha and Christian Gorder, of La Crosse.

Chris Gorder, for years employed by A. Bellure, the well known druggist, has a wide acquaintance and high standing in La Crosse.

Can't Get Him Back
With Gorder still in Lansing, and under the protection of the Iowa state law, District Attorney Otto M. Schlachach said today that it would be a difficult matter to bring Gorder back to Wisconsin.

Gorder was taken before the county lunacy commission at Waukon, and found sane. The sanity examination was attended by Dr. F. L. Gullickson, West Salem, son of O. Gullickson, superintendent of the asylum, who went to Lansing to bring Gorder back with him.

"The fact that Dr. Gullickson attended the sanity examination at Waukon," said District Attorney

Ordinarily, Dr. J. M. Furstman, city health commissioner, does not prescribe medicines or in any way interfere with the work of the local practitioners. But this morning he gave a "pill" to a caller.

He looked like a lumberman, and his breath had a Peoria atmosphere. He sought out the city physician in his office.

"Doc," said he, "I got two bum teeth. Pull 'em, will you?" The doctor explained that the request came a little outside his province. He told his visitor to look up a dentist.

"No," said the man. "I want you to pull 'em, for nothing." The doctor explained again.

"Well, if you won't pull 'em," said the caller, "Gimme a cigarette."

AUTHORITIES ARE SILENT ON BOMB
CONSPIRACY CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Stories of mysterious movements of federal detectives were circulated today, but United States District Attorney Marshall and Chief Flynn of the secret service refused to discuss the day's developments on the investigations of the alleged plot to blow up ships carrying munitions to the allies.

It was reported that rendezvous for German reservists were being searched for accomplices of "Lieut." Robert Tay, Max Breitung and other alleged conspirators under arrest. The government, it was learned today, will ask a continuance when the five men now under arrest are arraigned for a hearing next Thursday. Meanwhile the federal grand jury investigation will have begun. It is planned to have the hearing postponed until after time has elapsed for the grand jury to return indictments.

Schlachach today, "admits that Wisconsin was represented in the case as the law prescribes, and this fact would make it difficult to take any steps to have Gorder returned."

Chris Gorder, clerk at the Belleme drug store, brother of the escaped inmate, reiterated his statement of yesterday that he would not try to have his brother returned to the asylum.

If Gorder ever returns to the state of Wisconsin, however, he will again be liable to capture by the Salem authorities, as in the event that he commits any depredations in this state, they may be held responsible under the law.

He Tipped The Right Way And Grover Got Him

Alderman William Grover of the north side is the central figure in what will probably be the season's last fish story. The victim is a fifteen pound muskellonge, a fish which is plentiful in northern Wisconsin waters, but seldom caught in this vicinity. The "muskie" weighed in at 15 pounds when the battle started. Alderman Grover said he lost some weight before he finally struck the inside of the boat.

Mr. Musky was caught yesterday afternoon in Colman slough. The strike came after a long wait. The alderman reeled in and then he didn't. The fish had the better of the going for the first fifteen rounds, but finally played out, and Alderman Grover got him near his skiff.

The right moment came and the "muskie" balanced on the side of the skiff.

"And then what happened?" the questioner asked the alderman.

"The wire lead snapped in two."

"Got away?"

"No!" rolled into the boat.

FACE IS CRUSHED
IN LIFT ACCIDENT

Wells O'Keefe Badly Hurt
When Head Is Caught Between Gate and Rising Elevator

LIGHT CONSTRUCTION SAVES HIM

Gate Collapses and Injured Man Falls to Bottom of the Elevator's Shaft

Light construction of the basement elevator gate in the Boyer-Furniture company building is the only reason that Wells O'Keefe, 111 North Ninth street, extra employee of the Main street concern, is alive today.

Caught Between Lift and Gate While O'Keefe's fellow workmen were in another part of the basement yesterday afternoon, he started the freight elevator to the second floor. As the elevator's floor rose to the level of his chin, his head caught between it and the bottom of the "light protection gate," then raised. O'Keefe was hurled into the shaft. He is believed to have forgotten that there was a gate above his head.

O'Keefe's body was carried upwards for two feet until the strain upon the gate became too great and it collapsed. His body fell into the elevator pit below.

The first intimation that an accident had happened to O'Keefe was when workmen in the basement heard a stifled cry for help. The sound came from the elevator shaft and they ran in that direction. The elevator was moving upwards, and they saw O'Keefe lying in the pit, several feet below the level of the basement.

Face is Crushed
O'Keefe's jaw was broken in two places, and the lower part of his face and neck was crushed and lacerated. Dr. W. A. Henke was called and O'Keefe was taken at once to Grandview hospital. He was placed upon the operating table. Physicians announced last night that he would recover. His condition this morning was favorable.

O'Keefe can give no account of just how the accident happened. He cannot talk today, and shortly after the accident, was unconscious.

PREMIER ASQUITH

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The total British casualties to October 9 were 495,294, Premier Asquith announced today.

In the western war theater, said the premier, 4,401 officers and 63,959 men had been killed, and 9,169 officers and 225,716 men wounded, and 1,567 officers and 61,134 men were missing.

He placed the killed in all areas at 6,660 officers and 94,992 men, the wounded at 12,622 officers and 304,832 men, and the missing at 2,000 officers and 72,177 men.

The premier's statement was a written reply to a question put to the government in the house of commons.

Normal Juniors
Give Up Party
To Honor Team

The junior class of the normal school displayed a most magnanimous spirit yesterday morning when it decided not to hold a party it had planned, but to take the assessment that has already been made and use that as the first payment on the purchase of fifteen blankets for the football team. The girls of the class had assembled previously to discuss this matter and the boys entered into the compact yesterday, though rather reluctantly.

The blankets have already been ordered at a total cost of $84. The assessment made on the juniors was only ten cents apiece, so the blanket investment will necessitate the junior's staging a "County Fair" and other attractions before their task is completed. The blankets themselves will be made of the best material. They will be maroon in color, with gray borders and large gray L. C. N. letters born in the middle of each. They will not become the property of the individual players but of the athletic association, so the gift will be appreciated for a long time to come. The team was in dire need of something of this kind.

YUAN WARNED BY MIKADO NOT TO EFFECT MONARCHY

TOKIO, Oct. 29.—Japan has given President Yuan Shi Kai of China a friendly advice to postpone transforming his country into a monarchy "with a view to avoiding calamities," it was announced officially.

The Tokio view evident is that assumption by Yuan of kingly authority at present would precipitate a Chinese uprising. Even assuming that Japan wishes to gain control in China, as asserted in many quarters, and that such an outbreak would furnish an excuse for intervention, the mikado presumably thinks the outbreak would be more formidable than he cares to handle and prefers to carry out whatever policy he has, by other means.

RUNAWAY THROWS LITTLE GIRL TO STREET WITHOUT INJURY

Farmer's Team Becomes Frightened and Dashes into Light Pole; Pole is Broken but Children are Unhurt

A big black team belonging to Frank Krause, Brinkman's Ridge farmer, scattered bushels of apples on South Tenth street last night about 5 o'clock when they became frightened and ran from Tenth and Hood streets to Tenth and Redfield, where a street light pole separated them from the wagon. Three small daughters of Krause were in the rig and were thrown out during the runaway but were not seriously injured, so far as can be learned.

The cause of the runaway is a mystery. Krause was selling apples from house to house and it was while he was at the home of a prospective customer that the team became frightened. They ran along the side walk on the east side of Tenth street until they reached Redfield street when they collided with an electric street light pole. The whiffletree snapped in two. The pole was broken off about two feet above the ground.

One of the horses was captured on the Mormon Conlee road, while the other kept on his way toward home. One of the little girls was thrown from the swaying wagon at Tyler street, and her sister was able to hold her place for half a block further. The youngest, seven years old, was thrown from the wagon when it hit the light pole.

A man dislikes changing his favorite brand of cigars as much as a woman does her religion.

GOETHALS SAYS: "MOVE THOSE MOUNTAINS" AND
THE HILLS BEGIN TO GO

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PANAMA, Oct. 29.—These hills and valleys and various pieces of Panama geography that have been lumbering around and falling into the canal so carelessly and getting it all stuffed up, have peeved Governor Goethals. So today he pointed out a couple of mountains that he said were causing all the trouble and instructed his men to take 'em away."

"What, the mountains?"

"Yes, the mountains."

"You mean you would like these mountains removed?"

"Precisely. Move 'em—at once."

The mountains, be it added, began moving today.

It's really a small matter. Moving a few mountains more or less is of slight concern to Goethals. Chopping a hole in the face of the earth and building a young sea to connect a couple of others—that didn't dismay him. Why stop at shunting mountains around?

"Construction days" are being repeated in Gaillard cut, formerly known as Culebra cut. A score of big dredges and steam shovels and an army of workers are removing thousands of cubic yards of earth from the recent slides from Gold and Contractors' hills.

Governor Goethals a few days ago expressed hope of reopening the canal November 1, but the date may be extended. Nearly 200 vessels, held up by the slides since the latter part of September, wait at the docks at Balboa, the Pacific terminal, and Colon on the Atlantic.

"When will the slides permanently stop?"

"That's as easy to predict as the end of the European war," is the answer.

The removal, bodily, of the two mountains Gold and Contractors', being blasted away and the earth sluiced down to fill hills and valleys a mile distant, is expected to stop the slides.

That the slides will sometime stop forever—"some day"—is certain. This is confidently stated by Governor Goethals. The worst slides, it is believed, are now over. The last was the worst since the "big ditch" was opened.

"Shoring off" of the precipitous mountains which form the giant boundaries of Gaillard cut is the gradual, slow process which will prevent future slides.

The peculiar geological formation of the Panamanian mountains makes this feat difficult. Instead of firm rocks or sandy soil, interlaced by heavy forests, like the Rocky mountains, those of Panama are shelving hills of red and yellow clay, covered with tropical trees of small stature and undergrowth which does not "knit" the loose soil.

The "slides" are not an avalanche of rock and earth from the top of the mountain peaks, but a movement from below. As the base of the slanting cuts weaken through seepage into the canal channel by the heavier and more composite masses above.

The slide movement occurs comparatively slowly. It is detected by encroachments from the base of the cliffs. Sometimes the movement is so speedy that dredges and tracks are covered. Generally the earth at the base slowly mounts and is pushed until it encroaches into the channel.

When the upper part of the hills are cut away to such an angle that the pressure upon the earth beneath is removed, the slides will stop. The recent slides were expected.

As an expedient minimizing slide danger, parts of the towering hills have been cut away, in sections, or terraces, like a steep lawn is terraced to prevent erosion and "cave ins." The same principle, on a gigantic style, will stop the slides.

Gold hill has been known as the Jonah of the "cut." Contractors hill, another source of bad slides, is almost straight across. These are the only two important slide danger points remaining in the "cut."

When construction was first begun, the slides of Gold hill were almost perpendicular. Now they have been cut away to a very slanting angle and will soon be reduced to a point where slide danger will be almost removed.

He was born twenty-nine years ago in Norway on the fifth of February and came to this country when a young man. For a number of years he had been employed as a bicycle repair man at various cycle shops in the city.

He is survived by his widow and two small children.

Victim of Automobile Accident Sues H. O. Evjen and His Son for $5,000 Damages

Damages in the sum of $5,000 are asked by Mrs. Christina Erickson, in a suit filed today in circuit court against Tollef Evjen and Henry O. Evjen, his son.

Mrs. Erickson was struck and knocked down by an automobile at the corner of Seventh and state streets, driven by the younger Evjen. The accident happened April 5, and in her complaint today, Mrs. Erickson maintains that she has never fully recovered from the injuries. Several bones in her body were broken and her health was impaired permanently, she alleges.

In an answer to Mrs. Erickson's complaint, also filed today with the clerk of circuit court, the Evjens maintain that the accident was due to carelessness on the part of Mrs. Erickson.

TARIFF WILL BE OBJECT FOR ATTACK BY REPUBLICANS

G. O. P. to Meet in Capital In December to Choose Convention City and to Mobilize

FOREIGN POLICY TO GET SHARE

Charges of Infidelity of Administration Promises Will Be Made; To Attack Ship Bill

BY N. C. PARKE
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The republican national committee will meet in Washington, December 14 to select a convention city and begin mobilization for 1916. Chairman Charles D. Hilles made this announcement today and indicated the main lines along which the campaign to restore the republican party to power will be waged. They are:

First—An attack upon the democratic tariff.
Second—Criticism of the Wilson administration's handling of foreign affairs, both in Mexico and Europe.
Third—Charges that democracy has failed to keep its promise of an economical administration and has failed to keep other 1912 platform pledges, including the declaration in favor of a single term for the president.

Fourth—Attacks on the administration government ship bill and other administration measures.

By the time the national committee assembles, the present campaigns of numerous candidates for the republican nomination should be well under way, Hilles said.

"There is no lack of interest in 1916 presidential race right now," said the republican chairman. "That is, the interest compares favorably with that of four years ago. In some of the states having 'native sons' entered in the race, things are getting lively."

"It is true that the situation this year with respect to republican presidential candidates differs materially from that in the last two or three decades. Out of a group of presidential possibilities at this time there is no one man, nor two or three men who stand out as leaders in the race throughout the entire country."

"Whether that situation will obtain until the actual opening of the next republican convention or whether there will be a simmering down of candidates, I cannot say."

Active organizations are in the field for Senators Burton, Weeks, Cummins, Borah, Smith and Sherman, Justice Hughes, Elihu Root, former Secretary of State Knox, ex-Vice President Fairbanks, Governor Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania and several other men who are active or receptive candidates have strong followings.

MISSING GERMAN OFFICER WANTED REGARDING FIRE

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 29.—Pier 14, occupied by Dodwell & Co., agents for the Blue Funnel Line of British steamers, was burned last night. The loss was placed at $1,500,000.

Large quantities of war supplies awaiting shipments to Vladivostok were stored in the pier. The fire was the third on the pier in two days.

The pier was filled with freight recently received from the Orient and large shipments awaiting transportation to Russia, Japan and Europe.

While the authorities today attributed to German sympathizers or agents the fire, nothing definite was given by the police in support of this theory.

Search was being made for a suspect resembling one of the interned German officers who broke parole at Norfolk. A scar on the face, possibly received in a Heidelberg duel, was the clue to the search.

No Blue Funnel liner was moored at the pier last night, but two previous alleged incendiary fires in the same locality, extinguished without serious loss, broke out mysteriously when munition shipments were cargoes of steamers at the docks.

The fact that last night's fire reached its height fifteen minutes after it was discovered suggested to the authorities that a time bomb exploded.

MARGARET GASPS AS SHE GAZES ON LUCILE'S MODELS

Only Select Few Permitted to Be at Exhibition at Home of Lucile

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for the United Press.)

On, look who's here! They're models, dear. To show you what is smart; If you'd be swell Just eye them well And follow what they start.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—New York certainly ought to know how to dress and where and when with all the divers fashion shows going on for her benefit these last two weeks. Mrs. Belle Armstrong Whitney started the fashionable ball rolling with her show at the Cohan theater and left Miss and also Mr. New York gasping at her display of beauteous model frocks and trills on even more beauteous living models.

She has now moved on to give Miss Philadelphia, Miss Boston, Miss Washington, Miss Chicago and all the other American Misses a chance to see what's what in the fashion line.

Then Wanamaker's and Gimbel's gave their fashion promenade and the big fashion show for the benefit of the Actor's fund at Carnegie hall added new tips and much zest with the confections shown to advantage on real live actress models.

May Irwin, Marie Dressler and Trixie Friganza were there of course, but being perfect fifty-sixes they contended themselves and the public by being dainty little program sellers not aspired to join the living model class.

Last but not least came Lucile's select opening. None of the common herd were admitted to this most exclusive of fashion shows. No $2 theater ticket even could pry the holier into this most holy of holies.

Only the lucky possessor of a mauve, engraved card of invitation could hope to obtain admission; and even then the press of select ones was so great that special little gray-froked venturers had to hold fast to the front door against encroaching and panting females.

Once inside the portals of 37 West fifty-seventh street, which is the house of Lucile, Ltd., the lucky invited one settled down in the pearl tinted interior on a precarious gold chair and marveled aloud.

To strains of the most insidious music, six of the most pulchritudinous models in captivity glided (real honest to goodness models never walk) in changing raiment that would make even the Hilles of the field fade away in hopeless unattainment.

Each Toilette Named

Each and every toilette designed by Lucile has a pet name all its own. "Softly Purring," is a Chamignon velvet gown, if you please; "What Every Woman Knows," a faded scarlet chiffon and silver tea dress; "I Miss You So," a black and white check velvet afternoon dress; "The Vibrant Heart of Heaven," a sapphire blue tulle and brocade evening gown; "Snuggo wrotchka," a white velvet and black fox restaurant gown, and "Svand Allure," a black and silver brocade evening coat.

It really must take as much of an artist to christen the gowns as to design 'em. Think how trying it must be to Lucile as she lolls in her Louis Seize bed and thinks up first of a ravishing restaurant gown, a delectable tea dress or a fascinating dance frock, to have a waiting secretary or one of her entourage say: "Well, now that you have thought out the dress, what are you going to name it?"

Coffures Amazing

I understand Lucile designs her most successful creations in bed. Some of them look like it. It wasn't so much the frocks that left me gasping as the models waved by, but their hair. Goodness knows the gowns were amazing enough with their tightboned bodices, full crinoline skirts and all the earmarks of 1850, but the most amazing thing of all was the coiffures. I wonder does Lucile design them too.

One model wore her hair parted in the middle and smoothed down tight and slick in front with a little tight braided draped down around each ear.

A blonde had hers parted in the middle and also slicked down over each ear and slicked up in the back until it erupted in a fan-shaped loop on the top of her head.

Yet another blonde in a wondrous white satin and green embroidered dance frock, dubbed "To Smile Again," had her hair all peeled back from her face and done in a coronet braid stuck through with a diamond arrow at such a killing angle as to guarantee the blinding of her first dancing partner of the evening.

Aren't you just dying to buy heaps of Lucile models so you can languidly say: "Well, I guess I'll wear my 'Over the Garden Wall,' this morning; and this afternoon I'll slip on 'My Part I'll Play,' but I just can't make up my mind whether to wear 'Ghosts of Dead Roses,' or 'Sun, Blest Are You,' for this evening."

DID LEGIONS OF OLD ST. GEORGE HELP THE BRITISH?

Story of Journalist Is Given Credence at the Hands of Great Many People

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(By mail.)—Did a vision of St. George's legendary bowmen who centuries ago saved the English at Agincourt, again appear at the battle of Mons? Did soldiers in the ruck of battle really see the spirit legions here throw back the enemy? And did the enemy lie dead by thousands without visible marks of injury?

A London journalist so wrote it after the memorable retreat from Mons. He admits it was a fiction. But letters from hundreds of persons who "know it actually happened" have been printed in the past ten months. Mothers of sons who fought at Mons have told the story over and over again as "actual fact." No one has come forward who actually saw the vision. Correspondents have written of a band of angels with luminous halos grouped against the horizon at the apex of the battle. A silent band of horsemen clad in ancient mail treaded their silent way as the valiant British fell back.

The highest authority to vouch for the shadowy evidence is a lieutenant colonel in northern France, who "actually saw" the phantom horsemen and who pointedly refutes the allegation of the author of the "Bowmen" that no one has yet, first hand, testified of the most amazing event of his life. The lieutenant-colonel writes:

"I tell you my experience during the retreat without exaggeration, without embellishment. On August 26, 1914, was fought the battle of Le Cateau. We came into action at dawn. We fought until dusk. We were heavily shelled and had a bad time of it, but our division retired in good order. We were on the march the night of the twenty-sixth and on the twenty-seventh with only two hours' rest."

"My brigade was rearguard. We took up many positions to cover the retirement and by night of the twenty-seventh we were worn out—bodily and mentally fatigued."

"No doubt we suffered some from shock; but the retirement continued in excellent order, and I felt sure our mental faculties were still quite sound."

"On the night of the twenty-seventh, riding along the column with two other officers, talking and doing our best to keep from falling asleep on our horses, I became conscious that in the fields on both sides of the road along which we were marching, there were large bodies of horsemen.

"They had the appearance of squadrons of cavalry, and they seemed to be riding across the fields and going in the same direction keeping level with us."

"The night was not dark, and I saw squadron after squadron of these cavalymen, distinctly."

"I said nothing about it. I watched them about twenty minutes. The other two officers had stopped talking."

"At last one of them asked me if I saw anything in the fields. I told him yes. The third officer then confessed that he, too, had been watching the horsemen for nearly half an hour."

"So convinced were we that they were really cavalry that, at the next halt, one of the officers took a party of men out to reconnoitre. They found no one there. The night grew darker and we saw no more."

"The legions were seen by many men in our column. Of course, we were all dog tired and overtaxed, but it is an extraordinary thing that the same phenomenon was witnessed by so many men."

"I myself, am absolutely convinced that I saw these horsemen. I feel sure they did not exist only in imagination. I do not attempt to explain the mystery. I only state the facts."

The officer's story is believed in many places, just as are the stories of the phantom bowmen and the angels. Sober minds are beginning to ask: "It is truth, or just fiction, as the author says it is?"

AMERICANS MUST REMAIN SOLDIERS

Adventurers Who Went to Trenches Must Wait for Death or Peace

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, Oct. 6.—(By mail.)—

Adult Americans whose adventurous spirits tempted them to enlist in European belligerent armies must remain soldiers until they are killed or the war is ended.

This is the situation confronting scores of Uncle Sam's citizens who have had their fill of war and want to get out. Uncle Sam can't help them, though many have requested his mediation. The British war office will not release the Americans it has enlisted.

The American embassy in London, which has been successful in having between fifty and sixty American minors released from British military service, could not extend this service to the adults.

In answer to many appeals from men who joined the Canadians and who have survived hard fighting, the embassy passed the question to the state department at Washington. The department's answer quoted the following order of 1901, which is still in force:

"The department of state, in an instruction to the United States consul at Laurence Marques, during the Boer war, held that an American citizen who wilfully takes up arms in the service of a foreign state must bear the consequences of his act, and cannot expect, while he serves under a foreign banner, to be protected by this government."

Previous to receipt of this instruction, inquiry by the embassy at the British war office, elicited the statement that the British government was unwilling to release American adults who have taken the king's oath.

So, American fighters must keep on fighting until death or peace turns them out.

For The Housewife

(By Laura B. Breese, Department of Farmers' Institutes, of the University of Wisconsin.)

In salting almonds, use one tablespoon of olive oil, instead of butter, and note the improved flavor.

If a ham be plunged from boiling water at once into ice-water, the fat will harden white and firm, giving the meat a fine color.

Cook cauliflower in milk and water, a little more than half water. The vegetables will come out beautifully white and have a much richer flavor than when cooked in water alone. Cauliflower thus cooked and dressed with drawn butter, pepper, salt, and a dash of lemon juice, makes a palatable dish. Cooked in milk and water, and then chilled, cauliflower makes a nice salad, simply served with a leaf or two of crisp lettuce and dressed with oil, lemon, pepper, and salt.

Lima Beans with Bacon
Cook until tender, a cup of lima beans in boiling salted water, to which a pinch of soda has been added. Drain off the liquid and add a pint of milk to the beans. Slightly thicken the milk with one tablespoon of flour blended with one tablespoon of bacon fat. Add salt and pepper and place on a platter surrounded with slices of broiled or fried bacon.

Bean Loaf
Add one cup of cooked navy beans, one and one-half cups of bread crumbs, one cup of cream, to one cup cooked tomatoes (mostly pulp) and pepper and salt to taste. Mash beans fine, mix ingredients in order given. Bake one hour in moderate oven in buttered tin. Serve cold.

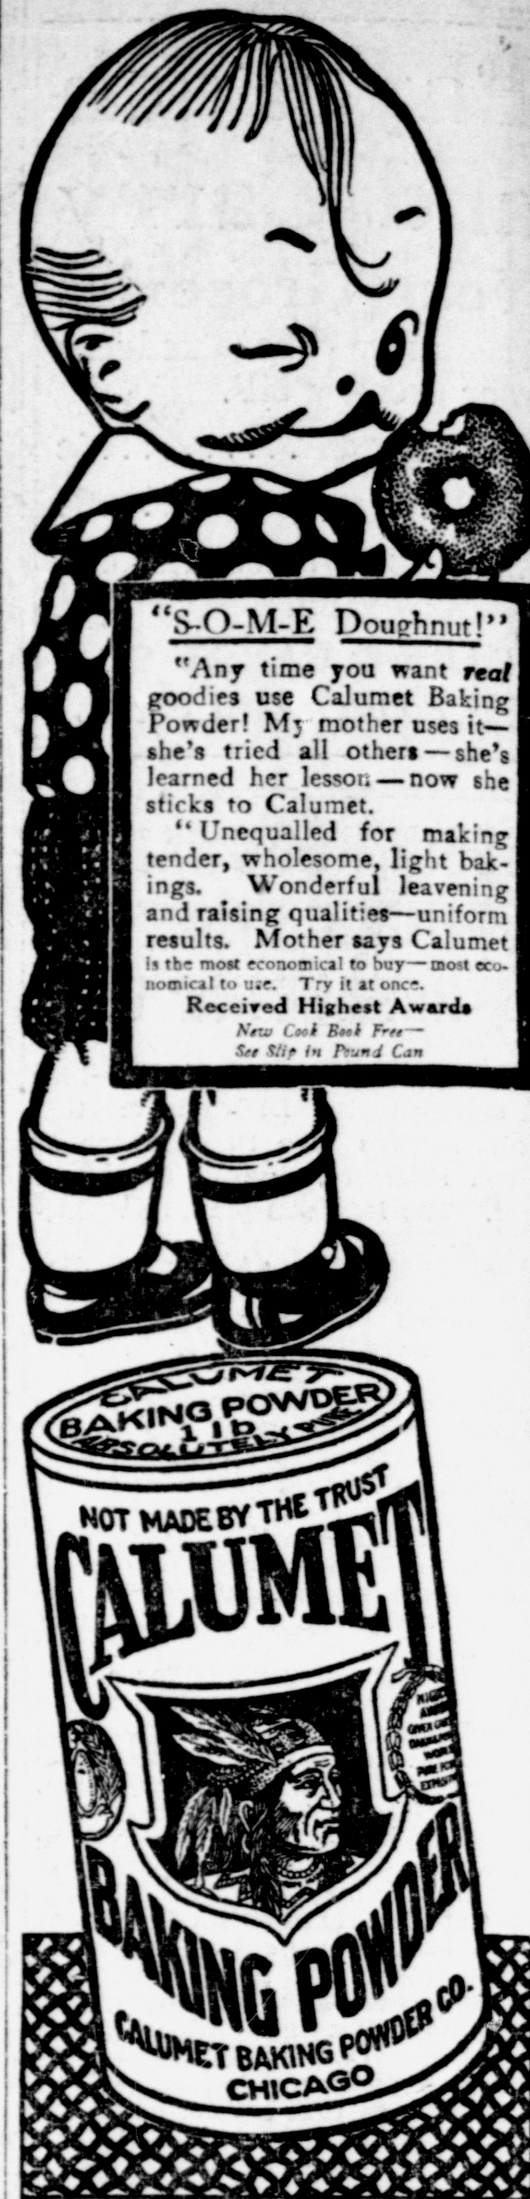

Delicate Scrambled Eggs
Make two cups of white sauce, using four tablespoons of melted butter. Break four eggs and yolk of a fifth into a bowl and beat lightly. Beat in another bowl the white of a fifth egg as dry as possible. Put white sauce in a granite dish (in which it can be served) over the fire and when hot stir in the beaten eggs with yolks. Stir constantly, lifting from bottom of dish until it begins to thicken, then put in the beaten white and mix it as rapidly as possible. Take from fire and cover and put in fireless cooker to set. If you have none, wrap dish in many newspapers. It can stand as long as an hour without deteriorating. A convenient dish to make, if waiting for someone at an uncertain time.

Peach Tea Cake
Put with two tablespoonsful of butter, one-half cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup of milk, two teaspoons baking powder, and two cups flour. Spread in a large shallow pan and cover with sliced peaches, adding a few kernels, a sprinkling of sugar and cinnamon. Press down slightly and bake thirty-five to forty minutes in moderate oven.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—(By mail.)—"Three cheers for American bacon."

"Larde Americaine," the French call it, but, by any other name, it is as appetizing. They did not know of bacon before the war. That is, not by that name.

The Belgian relief committee has informally let the packers of Chicago know that the Belgians and the northern French war sufferers have become enthusiastic boosters of this by-product of the American hog.

Each new consignment of bacon that reaches the Belgian or French relief stations is taken quickly by the war sufferers.

The head of one of the big American companies, now in Europe says:

"American packers are getting better advertisement for bacon here in Europe than they are at the world's fairs."

"When the war is over and the people in northern France are able to tell the people in southern France what they think of American bacon, I think the French will add another delicacy to their cuisine."

PERUVIAN BOAT SINKS

WOMEN! TRY IT! SAVE 5 DOLLARS

Says gasoline and solvite in wash boiler dry cleans everything.

Ever dry clean at home? Well, it's so easy, inexpensive and the results so pleasing you'll be surprised. Any woman can clean and renew the brightness of ribbons, silks, satins, laces, yokes, silk shirtwaists, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, children's coats, suits, caps, swiss, lawn, gaudy and chiton dresses, fancy vests, veils, woolen garments, network, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do five dollars' worth of home dry cleaning in a few moments and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and the drug store will sell you two ounces of Solvite which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash boiler or large dish pan completes your dry-cleaning outfit.

CONFERENCE WILL STUDY PROBLEMS OF COMMUNITY

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—Many phases of social service and community welfare will be discussed at the annual Wisconsin State conference of Charities and Correction which will be held at Wausau from Oct. 18 to Oct. 20, under the auspices of the bureau of general information and welfare of the University of Wisconsin. Prof. J. L. Gillin is in charge of the program. The problem of dependent children and child welfare will be studied from various points of view—that of the judge, the probation officer, the social service worker, and the public health officer. The relation of the school and the moving picture theater to this will occupy other speakers. "The Social Center in the Prevention of Dependency and Delinquency" and "The Need of Probation Officers in Small or Rural Communities" are other subjects of interest. The minimum standard of living in Wisconsin and its relation to the welfare of the child will be outlined as well as the social service that may be done by the hospital and the health officer.

Correspondent Finds That City Is Full of Munitions and War Supplies

(Editor's note—This is the first of two articles describing the Russian evacuation of Kovno city, from the German viewpoint. What the Russians did not destroy will be followed at an early date by the second article "What the Russians did destroy at Kovno.")

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

KOVNO, Russia, Sept. 27.—(By courier to Berlin, mailed to New York.)—Kitchener was deceived by his Russian advisers if they reported Kovno and other fortified cities "emptied" by the retreating army, for that is a half truth. Kovno city is an "empty shell," but the nine forts and twenty new batteries are filled with powerful cannon—over 1,300 of them—mostly undamaged. The hill sides about the Memel river are store-houses of ammunition. The city is plundered—shop after shop is wrecked and the 25,000 inhabitants remaining are barefooted and destitute. If Russia were America, congress might find material here for many court martials and an army reorganization which would astound.

In Kovno, more than 7,000,000 rounds of rifle ammunition and several hundred thousand rounds of shrapnel and heavy artillery ammunition were found. A captured Russian lieutenant swore this ammunition did not "fit the guns." These valuable stores, which the allies so badly needed, slipped in the wrong positions. Kitchener surely didn't know of this, think the Germans, or he would never have declared to the world that the Germans were winning only "empty shells."

Dissipation Evident
Another thing an American investigation committee would find, would be evidence of dissipation. Empty champagne bottles and empty cases are almost as thick as guns. Officers tell me that in searching the abandoned desks in officers' quarters they find women's lingerie and other evidences of "high life." Captured Russians and the few shop keepers who remained behind testify that nearly every soldier had a mistress.

I talked to Dr. Prussian, who married a Brooklyn woman and who was for many years a doctor aboard North-German Lloyd passenger ships, about immorality among the Russian troops. He is a volunteer in the Russian hospital. He declared that the best residents of Kovno, who stayed here told him that many Russian girls and women were abandoned by the retreating Russians—some of the girls 16 and 17.

I saw today forts 1, 2, 3 and battery 4. Everywhere the finest guns were in position with not even the locks destroyed. Most of them were oiled and ready for instant use.

Some Positions Smashed
It is true that the German forty-two centimeter guns smashed some strategic positions. In fort No. 2 one fort—two cm. shell drilled a hole forty or fifty feet into the ground and exploded, destroying the only important communicating underground passage between the batteries. From the mute evidence of old torn boots, rifles, hats and coats thereabout it must have killed and buried alive more than a hundred men.

I can easily understand why this may have caused a panic among the officers and men, but I cannot understand why a fortified city should be abandoned when less than 30 per cent of the fortifications were fired at.

Battery 4, which commands the main double track railroad, which the advancing Germans used, was not damaged. A captured Russian under-officer said today that not a German shell was fired at this battery.

When the Russians retreated they did it so suddenly that these cannon were not even used to destroy the railroad line. This lack of action was valuable to the incoming Germans, enabling them to make speedy progress.

By two Russians I am told that the reason the advancing Germans captured so many Russians is that the officers received word to retreat and instead of taking their armies with them, they loaded their valises and their mistresses in their autos and hurried away.

An under-officer left in command of battery 1 when the officers fled, told me today in the penitentiary where he is imprisoned, that when he saw the higher officers leave and was instructed to break the locks in the cannon, neither he nor his men would do it. Such is part of the story of Kovno, German officers declare it is not an exception. The Germans believe Kitchener was badly "buncoed"—and that the English and French armies are paying the penalty for a weakened ally through this lack of information. If Kitchener's army fought like that the Germans could be in London next week, the Germans say.

RURAL MINISTERS SHOULD HARMONIZE WITH COMMUNITY

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—Rural churches will be in charge of country, and not city-minded pastors, if the plan is adopted which has been outlined by C. J. Galpin, secretary of the Wisconsin Country Life conference.

In a set of recommendations which he has been asked to make to the National Social Service commission, he proposes among other things that a country theological seminary be established for all denominations and that in it men be trained for rural parishes.

"The farmer who has a rural training school for his country teachers, who is added in his work by agricultural representatives, who is sending his boys to high schools which include agriculture in their courses of study and whose sons attend agricultural colleges wants and needs a country theological seminary for his pastors. A country seminary alone seems equal to the mighty task of getting men for this national work. The country contains the strength of the nation. It is the breeding ground of its men. Here are the springs of normal human forces. The church should be at its best in the country."

FEAR ZEPPELINS ARE INTERNED

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(By mail.)—Rather than face Zeppelin bombs two of the best known German hotel managers in Europe allowed themselves to be interned as enemy aliens on the Isle of Man. They are Herr Theodore Krell, Ritz and Herr Jacques Kraemer, both of whom as aliens are past the age for the kaiser's military service.

SERVICE TO ARCTIC CIRCLE

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 29.—One month from today rural free delivery in the Arctic circle will begin. Carriers will leave on December 29, January 28 and February 25 with other mails, destined to the land of the midnight sun, going as far as possible by railroad, thence by stage, and finally by dog sled. Mail will be delivered to squatters, settlers and prospectors, as well as adventurers, whose addresses are known.

Debts are also great little makers of enemies.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

FRANCE EXPECTS TO HAVE BIG ARMY OF BLACKS IN FIELD

PARIS, Sept. 25.—(By mail.)—An army of half a million black men will be ready for the 1917 summer campaign if the plan of Deputy Pierre Masse is supported in the chamber by his fellow members. At the beginning of the war 60, 000 natives of Africa came to France to fight for their flag. These Tunisians, Algerians, Moroccans, Senegalese and so forth—"Turcos" most people call them now, stretching the term a little—have fought well and proved their ability to stand the colder climate.

Deputy Masse figures that the army of 500,000 would not be difficult to raise. It will be a "paid" army, not conscripts. The natives would not submit to conscription. As the native can live on a cent a day, 10 cents a day appeals to him as a small fortune. Masse contemplates giving the wife of the volunteer 10 cents a day, also 10 cents a day to his father. His family taken care of, his own wants provided for by the army, the black and yellow man, Masse believes, will rally in large numbers to the call.

Exclusive of northern Africa French colonial possessions have 45,000,000 inhabitants.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 29.—Miss Sophia McCallin, daughter of a former mayor of this city, and herself prominent in social and business circles, whose headless and mutilated body was found on the Pennsylvania railroad track near Roup Station last night, is believed to have been the victim of a mysterious plot, according to assertions by her friends.

The Laurel 20th Century Heater

burns the cheapest grade of slack, costing about $3 to $3.50 per ton, as easily as a base burner burns hard coal. The 20th Century Heater costs about half the price of the ordinary base burner, and does its work just as cleanly and thoroughly.

LAUREL Base Burner

Without perfect flue circulation any stove is a failure. The Art Laurel is fitted with the Laurel Circular Bottom, and special back flues, as shown in the illustration. By means of this construction, the heat comes in direct contact with all outside walls of the base and is radiated into the room at a point very close to the floor. The base is open in the center and through this opening the cold air is drawn up between the back flues, giving over double the radiating surface of any other base burner. The result is

The Greatest Amount of Heat from the Least Amount of Fuel

The Laurel Base Burner is the only base burner with this flue construction, through which the heat is carried in such a way that it comes in contact with every inch of surface going to make up the base chamber and flues, crowding, bounding, rebounding and circling the heat, lavishing its energy upon the sides, top, bottom and front of the base chamber, and the sides of the cold air receiver, thereby radiating more heat per square inch of surface than any other base burner.

Catarrh a Blood Disease

S. S. S. Drives It From Your System

Because Catarrh affects the nose and throat, causing sores in the nostrils, stoppage of air-passages and gathering in the throat, it has been common practice to treat Catarrh by lotions, washes and sprays applied to these parts. This mode of treatment is entirely wrong. It cannot give permanent relief, and it is liable to irritate and aggravate the trouble. Catarrh cannot be trifled with. If allowed to run on it will disease the bronchial tubes, settle on the lungs, the stomach—indeed it is a very serious disease. Don't treat it locally. The fact that it causes headaches is proof that it is caused by impure and diseased blood. The one treatment that has proved effective in the treatment of Catarrh is S. S. S., it is the greatest blood purifier and blood tonic known. It relieves the cause of Catarrh by the process of renourishing the blood, renewing its strength and vigor, giving new life to the red blood corpuscles, and stimulating the flow so that it has the vitality to throw off the poison and germs from the system. It is literally a blood bath. You quickly feel results. Headaches disappear, the gathering in the throat stops, the nostrils heal—before you hardly realize it you are well. S. S. S. is a natural blood tonic and has proven effective in the treatment of all blood affections. Eczema, tetter, rash, Scrofula. Get S. S. S. at your druggist's. If you need special advice write the S. AVIATORS SHOW MARKED COURTESY TO THEIR RIVALS

Fighting Is Clean and when Man Is Killed His Friends Are Advised by the Enemy

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(By mail.)—Between French, German and English aviators exists a strange comradery, a fraternity of chivalry and dramatic courtesies which stands out from the mud-slinging and butchery of war like a diamond on black velvet.

While French and British and Belgians and Germans and Austrians on the ground are killing each other by methods that make one's blood run cold, the aviators of the allies and the birdmen from the central empires are putting each other to death, high in the sky, with the utmost courtesy.

Psychologists ask if the warfare in the sky isn't developing the super-hero to whom killing is a sport and death by defeat, like arriving second in a hundred yard dash.

Every time a French aviator has met death in enemy's territory, German aviators carried to France news of the event. After Pegoud died in a mid-air duel a wreath and a card fell from a taube soaring two miles above the French lines.

When Garros was taken prisoner a German aviator dropped a note in France praising the French pilot's conduct.

When a German warplane is sent crashing to earth in one of these wonderful air duels, flowers for the German aviators invariably are dropped by the French fighters whenever the duel has been fairly fought. It is said that never a British aviator disappears but news of him is brought to his waiting comrades by German aviators. Such and such a thing has happened to so and so, says a note which comes plunging down out of the sky, a bullet attached to give it weight.

The British do the same for the Germans. It has become a sort of unwritten law of the air.

Of course there are exceptions; there are sportsmen in all contests who cheat and use unfair means.

But generally the war in the air is clean.

It is because the men of the air are heroes of a superior sort. Such, at least, is one answer. For it is pointed out, most anybody can face bullets on the ground when hundreds of thousands of others are facing them.

Everybody's courage is given to the individual and, almost to his own bewilderment he finds himself doing the bravest of deeds. But in the air the aviator is practically alone. His fight for life is fought unseen.

When such a brave man meets and brings down another of his own particular kind, he seems to feel no personal animosity towards his opponent, but merely a keen rivalry plus, perhaps, a certain amount of admiration, depending upon the other's skill and courage and qualities as a "clean" fighter.

When it is over the irresistible desire to let the vanquished hero's friends know he died like a man seems to come over the victor.

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for meat or eggs and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K. C. the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins

2 cups flour; 2 slightly rounded teaspoonsful K. C. Baking Powder; 1 teaspoonful salt; 1 cup sugar; 1 cup melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk. Sift dry ingredients together three times. Add to this the unbeaten egg, melted shortening and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and have oven slow until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to bake and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins. Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

Graham Muffins

1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry flour; 2 level teaspoonsful K. C. Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level teaspoonsful sugar; 1/2 teaspoonful salt; 1 egg; 1/2 cup milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoonsful melted butter; mix and bake as One-Egg Muffins.

Graham batter should always be quite soft to insure light and moist muffins. To get 88 other recipes as good as these, send us the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K. C. Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book," by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

WHITE SEES ONE MORE CHANCE AT CHAMPION WELSH

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—In Milwaukee tonight, Charley White will have to show everything he has in the way of punches, if he expects to keep climbing toward a long fight with Champion Freddie Welsh. Matt Wells will be the Chicago lightweight's opponent.

It is generally conceded here in the middle west, at any rate, that a knockout or a decisive win for White can be used as a lever to pry Welsh into a twenty round battle with the Chicagoan. A defeat or unsatisfactory affair with Wells tonight will give Charley a setback of serious proportions.

Tonight's ten round go is the most critical engagement for White since he fought Welsh at Brighton Beach on July 3. Here in Chicago, there were odds of 10 to 8 offered that White would win. Wells coin, however, is said to be plentifully in Milwaukee at even money.

Since February, White has fought 16 battles. He won eight by knockouts. One with Milburn Saylor was a draw. Seven were no-decision affairs, in two of which Freddie Welsh figured.

Wells has not been so busy but he is said to have drilled himself hard for tonight's fight and will go into the ring with the knowledge that if he wins decisively, he may get the much wanted chance to swap punches over a longer route with his fellow countryman.

Both men are to weigh 135 or under at three o'clock this afternoon.

SPORT NEWS

WOLGAST PUTS UP FORFEIT TO APPEAR HERE NOVEMBER 17

Assurances Made All Possible Is Done to Insure the Presence of Dutchman at Show

That Ad Wolgast will positively appear in La Crosse in the second boxing show of the Kanna Athletic club is evidenced by a signed communication received today by Fred W. Harris, president of the club, from Walter H. Liginger of Milwaukee, chairman of the state boxing commission. Wolgast has posted a forfeit of $150, Liginger says, to appear here according to his agreement made with the club that he would spend a period of training here prior to the fight to insure against a repetition of the trouble caused by his non-appearance for the last fight. The contract, it is understood, is ironclad.

Charges against Wolgast, it is understood, preferred by the local club incident to the last show, will be dismissed, if Wolgast lives up to his agreement.

The communication from Mr. Liginger is:

To whom it may concern: This is to certify that Ad Wolgast of Cadillac, Mich., has deposited with the state athletic commission of Wisconsin, a check of one hundred and fifty ($150) dollars, made payable to the Kanna Athletic club of La Crosse, Wisconsin; that the above check is posted as forfeit money to guarantee to the Kanna Athletic club of La Crosse, that the above said Ad Wolgast will carry out and fulfill and comply with the terms of the article of agreement he made with the Kanna Athletic club of La Crosse, under date of October 26, 1915.

STATE ATHLETIC COMMISSION OF WISCONSIN. Walter H. Liginger, Chairman. Packey Nolan, local boy, will fight "Jabber" Jung of Menasha at the next fight to be held on the evening of November 17, according to Mr. Harris. The boys will weigh in at 130 pounds.

Tommy Krieg of Marshfield, the man who stopped Anton, the Greek in their slashing ten round go at the last show, will be here again. This time he will fight Ford Munger of Kalamazoo. The weight will be 150 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Jimmy Murphy, for whom Wallace was substituted at the last show in the scheduled fight with Wolgast, will go against the Dutchman, as plans now stand. He is called upon to make 136 at 3 o'clock, while Wolgast will enter the ring at the weight best suitable to him.

Wolgast, Murphy and Munger will spend three days of training here before the fight, Mr. Harris said today.

CRIPPLED TEAM LEAVES TO FIGHT BATTLE IN NORTH

Horne's Men Leave for Chippewa Falls Minus Reget, Layman and Zeisler

A crippled team left for Chippewa Falls this noon as representatives of the La Crosse high school, to do battle with the strong eleven of that city. Prospects of an overwhelming victory for the Red and Black have long since vanished. The paper doped calculating a win by three touchdowns as figured from the comparative scores made by the two teams against their various opponents this season is not credited. The matter simmers down to one point in question—"Can La Crosse return with her goal line uncrossed?" The contest is expected to be the stiffest of the season. Coach Findley's undefeated eleven will prove stubborn opposition for the local team.

With Reget, Layman and Zeisler unable to play, the situation looks cloudy. Coach Horne is troubled. Gerard shows steady improvement at end and may be able to hold down his position for the entire game. The linemen are in good trim, but have played weaker during the past week.

A small coterie of La Crosse students is expected to show up at Chippewa Falls tomorrow.

The tentative lineup: La Crosse—Gerard, le; Blatter, lt; Hackner, lg; Bunge, c; Lauman, rg; Endres, rt; Kulczynski, re; Feinberg, qb; Bott, rhb; Spettel, fb; Roellig, lhb.

Chippewa Falls—Gore, le; Go-shaw, lt; Wang, lg; Olson, c; Hog-seth, rg; Brown, rt; Hofner, re; Shealy, qb; Giguere, lhb; Holtz, fb; Taylor, rhb.

The other La Crosse men taking the trip were Layman, Zeisler and Lyden of the backfield and Werel and Nelson as sub linemen. Layman donned his football togs last night and was able to go through light signal practice. If his leg continues to improve, he may start against the Falls men. Zeisler's foot would not permit him to report, but Horne took him along as emergency quarterback.

Referee: Schneller, Cumberland; umpire: Gelein, Wisconsin; field judge: Quilling, Menomonie; head linesman: Woodworth, Rice Lake.

NORMALS LEAVE FOR DUBUQUE GAME IN POOR CONDITION

La Fromboise, Taylor and Beehtold Cannot Play and Grausenick Will Be Held in Reserve

The normal squad, a different bunch than that which set out a week ago, left this noon at 12:23 for Dubuque, where they were to hook up with the seminary team of that city at 3:30 this afternoon. Coach Sputh was considerably worried over his crippled players, but said that the down river lads will be given everything the normal possesses. Efforts during the past week on the part of both the firsts and seconds were concentrated on shift plays. Fumbling has been extremely marked.

La Fromboise, Taylor and Beehtold will not be able to appear in uniforms at all. Grounds will start the game in Grausenick's place, but the Winona demon will be used if needed. Coburn and Tubias, new men, will fight together in the center portion of La Crosse's line. The expected lineup: Coburn, c; Tubias, rg; Wachter, rt; Miller, re; Marcon, lg; Jackson, lt; Holthaus, le; Skemp, q; Grounds, lhb; Strum (Capt.), rhb; Feinberg, fb.

JUNEAU'S COCKY BADGERS INVADE HAUNTS OF STAGG

The Cardinal Spruced by Clearing of Galvin from Charges of Professionalism

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—"Cub" Buck, varsity football captain, is going to Chicago sure. "Cub" yesterday won a local pool, conducted by 50 fellows to see who would go to the game. There was $12.75 in the pot. Students are confident that the incident foretells Chicago defeat Saturday.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Those Wisconsin Badgers, who think they're going to beat Chicago tomorrow and then clean the winner of the Illinois-Minnesota game on November 20 for the conference title, arrived today with blood in their eyes and ginger in their walk. They were particularly peppery over the clearing away of charges of semi-pro ball against Fullback Galvin.

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 29.—Betting was at even money today as to whether Illinois, 1914 champions, or Minnesota will be left in the running for the 1915 gonfalon after tomorrow's big game. The Gophers had been strong favorites until it became known that Captain Bierman has a bad shoulder and may not be able to stand the grilling of four periods.

DUMKE VICTOR IN SURPRISING MATCH

The match between O. J. Dumke and William Lombard in the Bodega Annex handicap billiard tournament was a surprise. As both men were handicapped at 100, a close match was expected. Dumke finished his string while Lombard was making 67.

Harry Eaton, 100, defeated O. Nelson, 50, 100 to 33. F. W. Miller, 95, in one of the best games played in the tournament, defeated Leif Erickson, 90, 95 to 74.

Only one game is scheduled for this evening—that between A. S. Roehrer, 65 and J. Anthie, 85.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEAN KIDNEYS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

CAMPAIGN OPENED TO DE-HYPHENATE AMERICAN CITIZENS

U. S. Bureau of Education
Starts Work to Naturalize Foreign-born
Residents

These are the words of Wilson's warning to "the hyphenated":
"There are those among us who have not thought first of America, who have thought to use the might of America in some matter not of America's origination. I am in a hurry to have a line-up and let the men who are thinking of other countries stand on one side—belligerently, it should be the left—and all those that are for America, first last and all the time, on the other side."

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29.—Augmenting President Wilson's declaration that America's foreign-born residents must be de-hyphenated, the U. S. bureau of education today announced the beginning of a vigorous country-wide de-hyphenating campaign.

A three-part constructive program is being developed by the bureau, with the following features:

The insuring that newly-arrived immigrant children are immediately placed in the public schools and not sent into factories and mills.

The promotion of the naturalization of alien residents of the United States.

The teaching of English to all foreign-born residents of this country who cannot read and speak that language.

The first step, that of seeing that newly-arrived immigrant children are placed in schools, is now being carried out through co-operation between the various school officials of the country and the immigration officials at the ports of entry.

When a group of immigrants arrive, the inspectors at the port learn to what localities the individual families with children are going.

They then send to the proper school authorities the names of the children they can expect. These officials then make strenuous efforts to prevent any evasion of the compulsory education laws by getting the children into schools as soon as they arrive.

In addition, the school authorities are also actively engaged in "recruiting" work among the fathers of these same children to induce them to take out naturalization papers.

A first edition of 50,000 brightly-colored, attractively printed posters, setting forth in English and the six principal immigrant languages the advantages of becoming a citizen, have been published. The bureau is sending these posters to 25,000 postmasters and 8,000 school officials throughout the country, by whom they will be posted conspicuously to catch the eye of the unaccustomed immigrant.

Educational authorities are also following up this printed appeal with personal talks to immigrants. A series of receptions is being planned at which both government officials and naturalized immigrants will talk to these men.

The posters sent out impress upon every alien who cannot read and speak English, the importance of learning the language from the standpoint of becoming a good citizen and making a good wage. They tell him to go to the nearest night school and register or to go to the postmaster or school official nearest him and enlist their aid in getting in touch with a school.

In a letter to school superintendents the bureau of education points out that there are 2,953,000 foreign-born whites 10 years or over in the United States and no less than 2,898,606, 15 years or over, generally beyond the compulsory education laws, who cannot speak English. Commenting upon this situation the letter says:

"These facts seem so appalling when taken in connection with the figures for illiteracy which are almost as large, that they call for action on the part of the federal government which will reach the non-English-speaking immigrant individually."

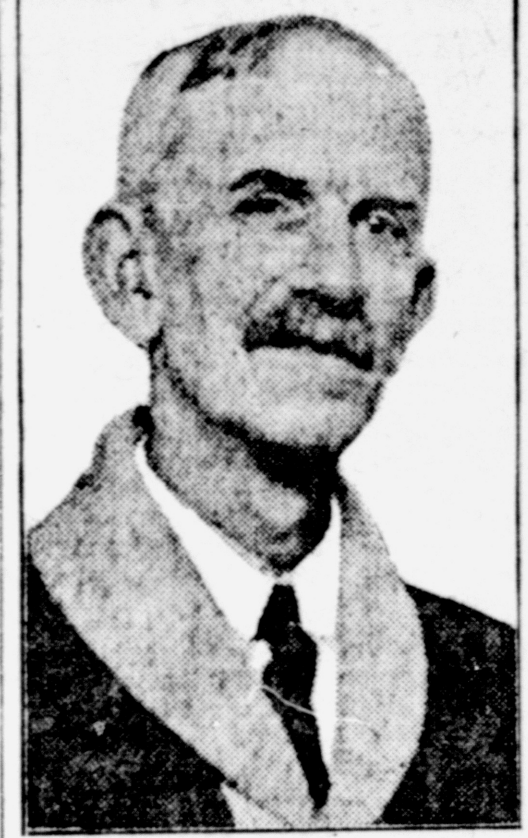

Officials of the bureau intimated, unofficially, that in times of national crises such a situation might easily prove, if not disastrous, at least extremely embarrassing to the government.

Realizing the danger of having such a large body of the inhabitants of this country almost wholly unacquainted with the national thought of the nation, the bureau is going to push the campaign of education through with all the force and speed possible and probably will ask congressional aid when presenting its estimates for the next appropriation.

Puny Caution.
Caution is a very puny form of morality. "He that observeth the wind shall not sow; and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap." It is as true politically as of other spheres of life that "he or she who lets the world, or his own portion of it choose his plan of life for him has no need of any other faculty than the apeline one of imitation."

What They Had.
"I like this quaint little mountain village of yours, waiter. I suppose I can get plenty of oxygen here?" "No, sir; we've got local option."

According to his own words, S. R. Jacobs, 167 E. Third St., Middletown, Ohio, was "just about down and out from pulmonary tuberculosis." Now he is feeling fine and states that "I am glad to give Nature's Creation credit for the wonderful change."

Writing to us recently, Mr. Jacobs said: "It gives me much pleasure to be able physically, to sit here with ease and comfort and write this statement. Six or eight months ago I wouldn't have attempted to write. At that time I lay on the couch a good part of the day and night. I was just about down and out from pulmonary tuberculosis. I am feeling fine at present, can walk four or five miles a day without any trouble and think I am improving right along. As well, sleep fine."

GERMANS USE VAST QUANTITY OF WIRE ON WESTERN FRONT

Thickets and Hedges of Strung Metal Used to Protect Their Positions

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, Sept. 29.—(By mail.)—

The part barbed wire plays in the war is graphically portrayed in letters from the front just before the battle September 25, when the allies, after an almost continuous bombardment of three days, made their first appreciable advance since the Marne.

To prepare for the infantry advance at only three points it was necessary to expend thousands of tons of shrapnel and high explosive projectiles along practically the whole line from the sea to the Vosges. Thus were the Germans kept in ignorance of what particular sections were to be attacked.

"This is the third day of the bombardment," says one correspondent. "Our artillery fire is intense. Point by point, section by section the trenches' barbed wire, has been pelted with a hurricane of shells. Rifle and machine-gun fire has been absent except for straggling bursts at night."

"Looking out over the German lines today, not one sign of life could be seen. Not even trench periscopes were hoisted over the parapets to indicate the watchfulness of the enemy. Doubtless the German infantry is packed away in its deepest dug-outs. The shells have done their best to search them out, and must have made them extremely uncomfortable."

"The spectacle from our side has been wonderful, awe-inspiring. To the Germans it must have been awful. The tremendous shells of our heavy artillery were bursting in spouting geysers of flame and smoke and dust on the slag heap near Lens, among the houses of the villages and along the lines of the trenches. Lyddite from the howitzers plunged into the communication trenches, blew down their parapets and broke down their sides; and shrapnel tore savagely and unceasingly at the masses of barbed-wire entanglements protecting the enemy's front."

"The amount of wire used by the Germans is stupendous. No matter what part of the front one visits the same thing is found—thickets, hedges, piles of wire, running in wide strips before every trench, arranged in heaps so thick they look absolutely solid round the redoubts and in the more or less vulnerable angles."

"It would be utterly impossible for any infantry to advance under fire and cut their way through. Shrapnel can blast a path but only after days of constant firing."

"Because the Germans know quite well that wire-cutting with shrapnel is a preparation for an advance, many miles more wire must be demolished than are actually required for the attack."

"Throughout today the batteries have been cutting wide stretches of wire, while the 'heavies' have been pounding the trenches. Every H. E. shell that fell threw up an enormous column of thick dust that hung heavily and drifted slowly downwind along the German front. The pelting storms of shrapnel swept clouds of dust before them to mingle with the smoke of the bursting shells. At times while sections of the German lines were blotted out by the slow-moving curtain of dust and smoke, and through the haze could be seen the vivid orange flame of still more bursting shells and springing clouds and pillars of still denser smoke and dust."

"The bellowing thunder of the guns, the shrieks and screams and whistlings and rumble of passing shells, the crash and growl and thump of the bursts have never ceased all day. Even now, after dark, a steady volume of fire descends on the German lines, the long roll of distant guns, the sharper kicked-biscuit-tin bangs of the nearer batteries, the "r-r-rump" and boom of the shrapnel still continue."

"The dark sky flickers and winks all round the horizon from the gun flashes. As far as we can see to the north these flashes tell the story of the artillery's ceaseless activity along the battle front, as far as the ear can catch them to the south, the roll and mutter and rumble of the guns tell the same tale."

"Whatever is to come on the morrow—if it is the big advance at last—the British army is ready and eager for it."

CHARITY BALL TO SEE PROFESSIONAL DANCERS PERFORM

Unusual Feature Is Added to Program of Concert Which Will Precede the Grand March

LEADERS NOT YET CHOSEN

Couples Who Will Lead the Spectacular Grand March Will Be Named Early in the Week

Professional fancy dancing will be an unusual feature of the charity ball this year, according to plans announced today by the committee of ladies in charge of the event which annually marks the high point of the social season in La Crosse. D. J. Sullivan, New York, a well-known professional dancer, and Miss Alice Nasz, Madison, partner, will appear as one of the chief features of the concert which according to time-honored custom will precede the grand march and the dancing.

Another interesting feature of the charity ball concert will be a solo by Miss Anna Hickisch, noted grand opera star, who is a native of La Crosse. The concert is scheduled to begin at 8:30, and will last well over half an hour. Its program will include a number of orchestra selections and the two numbers mentioned.

Leaders Not Chosen
The grand march will get under way shortly after 9 o'clock. The leaders have not yet been named, but their selection will be announced early next week, and they are expected to spend a great part of the week evolving the formations, which have in the past made the charity ball's opening parade a spectacular feature of the event.

Supper will be served at 10 o'clock in the card rooms of Germania hall, where the ball is to be given as in former years.

Several hundred tickets have been sent out by the committee in charge, but as it is impossible to overlook many in compiling the lists, it is hoped that persons who have not received tickets will not hesitate to notify the chairman of the ticket committee, or purchase them direct at Hebbard's drug store. Everyone is invited to the ball, and it is hoped that strangers in the city will not hesitate to avail themselves of the general invitation. It was announced today that anyone acquainted with strangers here who might wish to attend the ball will confer a favor upon the committee by notifying Mrs. Hirschheimer. The ticket price is $3 a couple, with a dollar for "extra ladies." The rule is that two unescorted women may come in upon a $3 ticket, but not upon two single dollars. The tickets include supper and all other privileges.

LOCAL PEOPLE IN MARCH

In the Boston parade of suffragists which took place October 16, a number of La Crosse citizens took part. To quote from a letter written by Mrs. W. L. Crosby, who is living at the Hub:

"It was a most inspiring sight. The Anderson-Crosby members could not march with the states, who had given the vote, so they chose Brooklyn, where our friends live. Miss Anne Paul looked perfectly grand carrying the Political Equality banner. Miss Helen Anderson was one of the marshals. Mrs. Crosby and her daughter, Miss Margaret Crosby, were in the line of procession. Miss Paul whose home is in Boston, takes a great interest in the suffragist movement.

ROLL CALL TONIGHT

The annual roll call of the members of the First Congregational church will be held in the church parlors this evening at 7:30, according to an announcement by Rev. Rowllson this morning.

Garb Of Peddler Saves Woman From Fate Of Nurse

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Malcolm Carter, an English woman, escaped the fate met by Miss Edith Cavell, the executed nurse, by a clever ruse, according to her story told here today on her arrival from Liverpool on the White Star liner Adriatic.

Mrs. Carter said her passports were torn up by order of General von Bissing, military commander of Brussels, and that she was suspected of being a spy. Fear that she would be executed, she said, led her to don the clothing of a traveling cheese peddler and with the help of Dutch smugglers escaped from Belgium. She said she had to walk twenty miles through a dense swamp to reach the Dutch frontier.

Florence has had some previous association with the Italian court, for in 1864 it was made the temporary capital of Italy, and in the following year the king and court removed there. In the same year the first assembly of the Italian parliament took place there. Not until 1871 did the government remove to Rome as the capital of Italy.

Some people use coffee for years and either forget or don't know that caffeine is a cumulative poison, working away in the system, insidiously undermining and destroying health.

Some of the signs are headache, heart flutter, sleeplessness, biliousness, and various stomach, kidney and liver troubles.

Of course, if one prefers his coffee, and is willing to put up with these "comforters," why—keep right on!

But, if one values health and real comfort, and at the same time would enjoy a delicious, wholesome beverage, the thing to do is to quit coffee and use

PURE BRED HORSES ON INCREASE IN THE BADGER STATE

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—Wisconsin has every reason to be proud of the improvement which is being made in the character of the horses raised in the state.

In 1907 about 65 per cent of the stallions in the state were of grade or scrub type. This year the percentage has fallen to about 42 according to the annual report of the department of horse breeding of the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. A. S. Alexander, who is in charge of this work, reports that the pure bred stallions of the state now number 1,771, grades 913, and scrubs 345. In 1914 the grades numbered 1,019 and scrubs 404. Since 1907 pure bred stallions have increased in 60 counties, decreased in nine, and remained the same in two counties. During the same period grade and scrub stallions have decreased in 56 counties, increased in 11 counties, and remained the same in four counties.

Several counties have made exceptional records in adding to the number of their pure bred sires. Since 1907 Barron county has gained 28, Brown 26, Walworth and Monroe 24, Chippewa 22, and St. Croix 21. The most notable decreases in grade and scrub stock have been 69 in Grant county, 56 in Dane, 46 in Monroe, 50 in Brown and Manitowoc, 28 in Fond du Lac, and 25 in La Fayette and Trempealeau.

Pure bred draft horses in the state are grouped according to breeds as follows: Percherons 1,052, Belgians 166, Clydesdales 74, French Draft 64, Shires 46, Suffolks 1. Of the light breeds there are 276 Standard Bred trotters and pacers, 17 French Coach, 19 German Coach, 6 Hackney, and 22 Morgans. Registered jacks number 16.

MINN. TO BE BATTLEGROUND

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 29.—Minnesota has been selected as the battleground on which will be fought out the issue between favored sons of the west, ambitious for the republican presidential nomination. Senator A. B. Cummins, Iowa's candidate for the honors, in a statement issued this week figuratively tossed the gage of battle on Gopher soil and announced his willingness to rest his case with the Minnesota primary scheduled for March 14 of next year.

WILL INCREASE LEVY

ROCHESTER, Minn., Oct. 29.—With increased funds needed for the maintenance of Rochester schools and its public library the tax levy is due to be increased this year. The schools are asking for $65,000, while the public library wants $10,000 for an addition.

Week's Offering in Movieland As Seen in La Crosse

By N. D. Tevis

To know who's who in Movieland today, the movie fan must be also a stage fan, for some of the biggest features being shown at the leading film houses are taken from stage successes of a few seasons back. In the "colum" this week are to be found several big stage plays made over

"I WONDER WHAT'S IN TOWN TODAY?"

BIJOU—"The Majesty of the Law," a Morosco-Bosworth play by the Paramount featuring George Fawcett.
CASINO—"The Curious Conduct of Judge Legarde," with Lionel Barrymore.
MAJESTIC—Thomas A. Wise is playing in "Blue Grass," a Kentucky race track story.

for the movies—and there is one sure thing about them—the producer always knows he has a sure thing—something that has had a rigid try-out.

George Beban made the hit of the week when he played at the Bijou in a return engagement of "The Italian." The Majestic's "The Wonderful Adventure," in which William Farnum was brought into the limelight again, scored a success, and the Casino's "The Soul of a Woman," proved all the good things that were said about it in advance.

Pictures to be watched for the seven days to come are "Sin," "The Money Master" and "The Silent Voice." The Majestic will feature Theda Bara in the former. The Bijou will introduce a new film exchange with "The Money Master," and the Casino will show Francis X. Bushman in "The Silent Voice."

Among several announcements which are made public this week, the picture policy of the unnamed new house of McWilliams of the Casino, situated at Twelfth and Jackson streets, looms biggest.

"Mack" said a mouthful when he stated today that he had secured "Neal of the Navy," the biggest hit in the picture serial line, for his new house, but it is due to the current opinion that he will make even a bigger hit with the announcement that he will show the brand new "J. Rufus Wallingford" pictures at his new house.

The Pathe company are the producers of both, and will all run in conjunction when the new house opens. The "Wallingford" pictures are complete in each installment. They are the "Get-Rich-Quick" stories which made the Cosmopolitan Magazine famous a few years ago. "Wallingford" is played by Burr McIntosh. S'Nuff, Max Figma plays "Blackie Daw."

Another announcement of more than ordinary importance is that of Harry Burford of the Bijou who brings "The Money Master" to his house Tuesday as the opener for his new Klein-Edison film service.

The Majestic announces the last film to be shown here in which Theda Bara will play. The picture will be "Sin," said to be one of her best.

Bijou Features

A new star in the firmament of Pictureland appears at the Bijou today and tomorrow, in George Fawcett, playing a Morosco-Bosworth motion picture play called "The Majesty of the Law." Fawcett is supported by William Desmond and Myrtle Stedman in what is one of the best Paramount productions.

With the petite Hazel Dawn playing the leading part, "The Heart of Jennifer" will be the Bijou attraction Monday. With Miss Dawn is James Kirkland, the Famous Play in "Blue Grass" at the Majestic. The picture is one of the old-styled, wholesome kind, good to get back to once in a while, and the movie fan looking for a bit of real entertainment can't afford to miss it. It is a story of the Kentucky race track. The southerner has gone down on his luck with a string of pet ponies which don't win for him. The southern girl enters into the story, which is written by Paul Armstrong.

Theda Bara Last Time

Theda Bara makes her last appearance in La Crosse at the Majestic Monday and Tuesday in "Sin," one of her characteristic pictures. It is a drama of modern life, and purely for Theda Bara.

"Dr. Rameau"

Wednesday and Thursday bring "Dr. Rameau." Frederick Terry, Jean Southern, Stuart Holmes, Dorothy Bernard and George Alison are the stars. The picture is sometimes called "The Science of Love," and is a modern society drama based on the play and novel written by George Ohnet.

Movies at Casino

"The Curious Conduct of Judge Legarde," another movie taken from a stage success, and featuring Lionel Barrymore, is running today and tomorrow at the Casino. The story deals with a dual personality. Judge Legarde is the chief justice of a criminal court and scouts the double personality theory entirely. The theme of the play is striking, and wholly a novelty.

"The Conversion of Frosty Blake," featuring Will S. Blake, plays at the Casino Sunday. Hart is the man who played in "The Bargain," a big Paramount picture shown at the Bijou, and in "The Night Stage," a recent Casino hit.

Bushman Comes Back

La Crosse has lost track of Bushman, so it seems, but when the announcement is made that he and Margaret Snow are due to return, there should be a bevy of gladness for Bushman is always a winner.

Frank Sheridan in "The Money Master," at the Bijou into La Crosse Tuesday and Wednesday, when the Bijou will show "The Money Master" with Frank Sheridan, one of George Kleine's stars. The picture is adapted from Cleveland Moffitt's big stage success, "The Battle."

The last part of next week will bring John Barrymore, funny man, to town again in "The Incurable Duke." Mary Pickford comes the following Sunday in her latest, "Esmeralda." "The Magic Skin," the second Kleine-Edison picture, follows.

Movies at Majestic

Ever see Thomas A. Wise in a "down south" character portrayal? He is one of the king pins of the Many a clever vaudeville act fails to get the "hand" which the Majestic stage setting for the movies is getting from audiences at the theater this week. motion picture business in America today.

He is playing today and tomorrow

James Henabery, who will play "Abraham Lincoln" in "The Birth of a Nation" at the Majestic November 14, for a week.

The favorite pair will play Monday and Tuesday in "The Silent Voice," and Lester Cuneo, Helen Dunbar, Ann Drew, William Clifford and others are also in the cast.

With Margarita Fischer as the star, "Infatuation" comes to the Casino Wednesday and Thursday. The film is a Master picture, and with its exhibition, McWilliams will announce the changing of his former policy of showing Master pictures on Sunday only. In the future, he will book them for two days each

SCARLET FEVER IN SCHOOLS

CLAREMONT, Minn., Oct. 29.—Because several cases of scarlet fever were found among pupils in the lower grades of the Claremont public school, all of these grades have been closed indefinitely and a concerted effort is being made to stamp out the disease. It is expected school work can be resumed within a week or two.

Earliness is an important factor in the price of vegetables. A week's difference in maturity often means a great difference in price.

COUGHED CONTINUALLY

Day and Night—Man Says Nothing Helped but Vinol

That statement does not surprise us. We have told the people of La Crosse many times during the last ten years that Vinol is the greatest remedy for chronic coughs and colds that we ever sold. Mr. Dunning says:

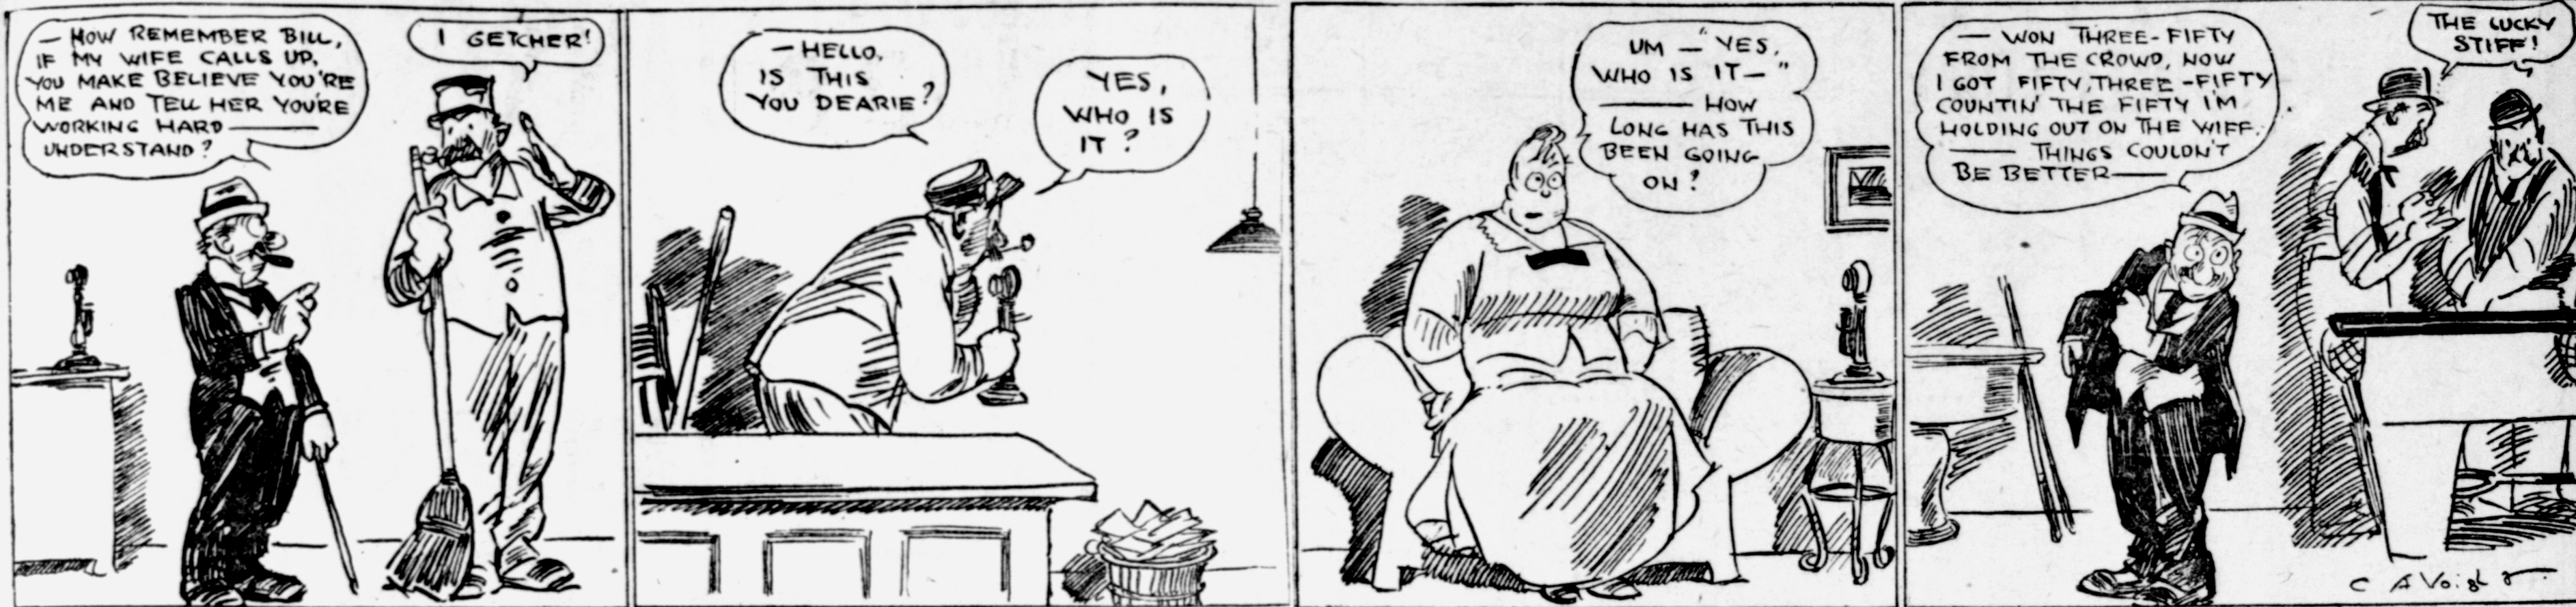

"I took a heavy cold which settled into a chronic cough. It seemed as though I coughed continually day and night, so I could not sleep. I was all run down and so weak I could hardly keep about. I tried different cough medicines but seemed to get worse instead of better. I went to the drug store and got a bottle of Vinol. Before it was half gone I was better and its continued use cured my cough, built me up and I am feeling fine." Benj. Dunning, 208 Tenth Ave., Scranton, Pa.

Vinol is not a palliative like cough syrups, but it is a constitutional remedy for coughs, colds and bronchitis, which removes the cause and stops the cough, and the recovery of Mr. Dunning was due to the healing medicinal extractives of fresh cod's livers without oil, aided by the strengthening, revitalizing effect of tonic iron and beef peptone which are contained in Vinol.

“Whys” of Moves in European War

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The sudden cabinet crisis in France may be the beginning of the end of the war. It is an acknowledgment of France's dissatisfaction with the progress of events, and is a final effort to put things to rights before the end is reached.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove it

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system.

reached. If a new ministry cannot bring about radical improvements in the military and diplomatic situations, France must then begin to consider terms of peace.

The immediate cause of the ministry's loss of prestige is the defeat of the allies' diplomats in the Balkans. But, deeper than this, is the growing despondency over the inability of the army either to drive the Germans out of France or to press forward in Alsace and Lorraine. With the war in so unsatisfactory a state at home, French public opinion does not approve of the dispatch of an expeditionary force to the Balkans. The Viviani cabinet has laid itself open to serious criticism because of the Balkan expedition.

The French people unquestionably believe Great Britain ought to take over the responsibility of checking the Germans in the near east, and there is, too, an undoubted feeling that M. Viviani has not got as effective assistance from the British as he ought. Criticism of Great Britain has lately become but thinly veiled in France. French statesmen are now intimating that the British are guilty of hesitation and incompetence. The period of recrimination among members of any kind of coalition, which is almost inevitable after persistent defeats, has not yet begun openly in Europe; but France is not concealing her disappointment at the character of the assistance she has received from her allies.

The Viviani ministry, by offering its resignation, has brought France's relations with her allies to a plane where there must be very plain speaking. France cannot afford hereafter to occupy second place in interchanges of opinions among members of the quadruple entente. The war is entering upon a phase of dangerous exhaustion for all the belligerents and the French people must be in an improved position, diplomatically, if they are to obtain the maximum results in the peace congress after the war. By changing her ministry, France will be in a position to ask for a new basis of understanding among the allies. This new basis, indeed, in its first meaning, must relate to the kind of peace acceptable to all the allies. That being so, the Balkan situation may, in the end, work out favorably to France. The German threat against

Sciatica, Its Cause and Cure

“Sciatica,” according to Dr. Twitmyer of Columbia, is a disease due either to pressure of tumor on the sciatic nerve, some-where in the pelvis or in the nerve trunk or to neuritis, and it is characterized by severe pain. It very often follows lumbago; some cases are caused by impacted feces pressing upon the nerve. Sciatica attacks women more often than men, children being very seldom affected, and between the ages of 30 and 50 the disease is most common. Gout and rheumatism seem to be the active causes of the disease, which is therefore called sciatic rheumatism. The treatment is varied and many remedies have been tried without success. Rest is the best thing for the trouble, and if possible have the limb encased in a splint, so as to prevent any motion. The pain is the most important thing to relieve. Counter irritants, mustard plasters, iodine, etc., have been tried with more or less temporary benefit. Cold applications have proven of value. However, I have found Anti-kamnia Tablets to give the most prompt and lasting relief. Two A-K tablets every three hours is the dose which has proven satisfactory in the most severe cases. These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are unexcelled for headache, neuralgia, and all pains.

Egypt and other British eastern possessions makes the British empire, for the first time, really dependent on the assistance of the allies.

France, therefore, can now talk more convincingly to the British government than at any other time since the beginning of the war.

MONEY SAVED BY ENGLAND IN GOLD SHIPMENTS TO U. S.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) LONDON, Oct. 6.—(By mail.)—The Bank of England's system of valuing gold coins by weight as against the U. S. treasury's face value computation has saved the former $20,000 on only two shipments to America.

The first shipment on reaching New York was counted coin for coin and found to contain $10,000 too much. The last consignment of $19,000,000 was $20,000 heavy. These amounts were turned over to the financial agents of Great Britain in New York and will be properly applied on future shipments.

The American system of computing gold coins is for face value. It was pointed out here, unless more than one-half of one per cent has worn away.

W. B. U. GRADS DRAW $42,000 YEARLY ON GUND CO. PAYROLL

Little Doubt That Wisconsin Business University Has Best Equipment of Any in Country

HAS QUARTER-CENTURY HISTORY

Success Built Upon Execution of Detail Perfection from Student in Every Line

In order to have that sense of the city essential to co-operation and mutual helpfulness, the people of a community must keep in touch with the operations of their active institutions.

It is in keeping with this idea that from time to time the TRIBUNE reviews the affairs of La Crosse's more important local enterprises, and today there are presented interesting and gratifying facts in relation to an organization which probably brings more outside people to La Crosse than any other private undertaking.

42,000 from Gund Co. Perhaps the most striking way of introducing the Wisconsin Business University is to observe that the John Gund Brewing company alone pays an aggregate of approximately $42,000 a year in salaries to graduates of this commercial school. When one's breath is recovered after this surprising statement, founded on data that may be traced in the books of the two institutions, one is in a position to grasp these further facts:

There seems no doubt but that the W. B. U. has the best equipment of any business university in the country; it has placed graduates in many of the states and in Canada, more than 500 of its graduates being employed in the state of California alone, and an interesting phase of the matter is that its students have been welcomed as employees in cities supporting competitive business schools. In reverse, there are in the W. B. U. students who reside in other cities having business universities and many more who to get here pass through cities where business colleges are located. Twelve of its graduates are in the government service at Washington, D. C., and the principal of the Home School of Gregg Shorthand, Chicago, is a graduate of the Toland university.

Quarter Century Old These achievements are the result of growth built upon the experience of those who have had charge of the university since its founding by the late F. J. Toland twenty-five years ago, and Mr. Leigh Toland, president, announces that never in the quarter century of its existence has the school been in a more flourishing condition, its steady growth from year to year having been maintained to the minute, the present enrollment exceeding that of the same period last year.

President Toland, although still a young man, is credited with having placed more young men and women in remunerative positions than any other business university director in the country, an example of its success existing in the circumstance that at Mankato, Minn., which boasts a business university of its own, the Mankato Milling company employs five graduates of the W. B. U.

An important feature of the equipment in the W. B. U. is its actual duplication of every line of equipment used in actual business in all the various branches of commerce and industry. Such an equipment represents a substantial expenditure and a constantly recurring expense in order to keep the machinery up to the latest word in every particular.

Insist on Perfection One secret of Mr. Toland's success is the exaction of perfection. In every detail the student must master his subject, acquiring a practical working knowledge of that which he undertakes upon expert standards. To instance this point, in the banking department the day's work is done exactly as it is in an up-to-date bank from the opening of the doors, through the day's routine, to the balancing of the books at night.

While he devotes himself assiduously to the educational features of the W. B. U., President Toland does not lose sight of the fact that to do their best work the social and physical sides of the student must be employed. Baseball, football and other athletic sports are organized and encouraged, and the social season is filled with pleasant entertainments.

A school orchestra, the organization of which is just completed, is the latest departure, and a series of school dances has been arranged, the first of which will be a Halloween dance Friday evening.

The democracy which President Toland insists shall be maintained among the students has contributed much to the social enjoyment as well as to the scholastic success of the institution.

MANY ARE OUT FOR DEBATE'S PLACES

More Than Score in Competition for Eight Places on Normal Forensic Platform

WILL TRY OUT ON BIG SUBJECT

Topic to Be Debated with Milwaukee Will Be Test for Candidates Next Month

Prospects for successful debating teams at the normal school are filled with greater promises than ever before in the school's history. At the first meeting of the contestants for places on the team about a week ago, twenty young men appeared. At succeeding meetings between twenty and thirty students came out, so if these appear with a speech when the local try-out is held on November 12, there will undoubtedly be the keenest kind of competition for the six regular positions and the two places of the alternates. The men had decided to debate the question of the recall of judges in the local try-out so that the La Crosse teams would already have been chosen when the final question arrived from Milwaukee. Owing to the fact that the question submitted by the Milwaukee normal was received here yesterday, another meeting of the contestants was called; they decided to debate the Milwaukee question in the try-out here, the logical plan. The question for the inter-normal debate is, “Resolved, that the United States should form an alliance with the A. B. C. powers for the settlement of international difficulties involving any of the American republics.”

It is necessary to be a member of one of the four literary societies in the school to try out for the inter-normal teams. This is the only limitation. This year La Crosse will debate Milwaukee and Platteville. The affirmative will debate the big city boys here, while the negative will journey south to clash with Platteville's negative. The debate will be held sometime in March.

Forensics at the normal are also on a firmer financial basis than ever before. Following the plan of the athletic assessment, a fee of twenty-five cents was attached to each tuition paid this fall, the students to secure in return admission to forensic contests, just as is done in athletics. This provides an amount of about a hundred dollars to settle up old accounts and travel through the present year.

Folks are quick to discover the faults of wise men and the merits of fools.

Indigestion May Be Due to Constipation

Neglect of Important Function May Seriously Impair the Health

There are many people who believe they suffer from indigestion when their discomfort really is due to a constipated condition. Bloat, with its attendant mental depression, sick-headache, the belching of sour stomach gases, etc., are frequently due to inaction of the bowels. Relieve the congestion and the trouble usually disappears. The use of cathartics and purgatives should be avoided, however; these shock the system unnecessarily and, at best, their effect is but temporary. A mild laxative is far preferable.
